INVESTIGATION BY POST-DISPATCH SHOWS WAGE SCALE CHIEF DETERRENT

Public Here Opposed to Paying Higher Rate for Skilled Labor Than Is Paid in Any Other City, Exhaustive Inquiry Shows—Efficiency of Workers Increases.

Head of Building Trades Council Says Workers Would Accept Reasonable Reduction if Assured Construction Would Proceed.

An exhaustive investigation by the Post-Dispatch into building conditions in St. Louis, in the course of which it was ascertained by inquiry at the offices of architects that building projects of an estimated cost of $20,000,000, for which plans have been drawn, are held in abeyance chiefly because of the high cost of labor, brought out that it is the predominant opinion of men connected with the initiative side of the building industry that only a reasonable reduction of wages in the building trades will so stimulate building as to increase it to the volume that normally should be expected.

The conclusions, which interviews with architects, builders, contractors and bankers showed them to be practically agreed upon, were, in brief:

That the wage scale of the building trades in St. Louis, acknowledged to be the highest in the United States, is responsible, more than any other factor, for the stagnation of building operations.

That contributing causes are the general business depression, the difficulty of obtaining loans to finance construction, and the cost of materials.

Recent decline in cost.

That recent months have witnessed an appreciable decline in building cost, in some instances as much as 25 or 30 per cent, traceable primarily to these factors: Reductions in the cost of materials, improved efficiency of labor, and competition among contractors who eagerly seek jobs so that they may keep their organizations intact during the slack time.

That any steps which might be taken to stabilize building costs on a reasonable level should be initiated and followed to a conclusion as soon as possible in order that persons who would like to build in the spring may be assured of the basis and make their plans accordingly.

That there is in prospect a vast volume of building in the city, merely awaiting favorable conditions, for which architects have not yet been definitely commissioned to draw plans. Work of this nature of which architects have knowledge and which they believe would be undertaken except for the high labor cost was found to aggregate an estimated cost of $16,869,000.

The building for which plans have been drawn and that definitely in prospect, the postponement of which is attributable to present costs which owners consider too high, would represent in the aggregate an expenditure of approximately $37,000,000. Persons familiar with building costs stated that for the general run of building the cost is from 40 to 50 per cent for construction labor and the remainder for material.

Thus the undertaking of all these projects would mean a minimum expenditure for wages of about $14,000,000.

JOYCE AND CHORUS GIRL WIFE
REACH FINANCIAL SETTLEMENT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, former New York chorus girl, will receive a lump sum of $30,000 and two fur coats and jewels valued at $800,000, according to terms of a settlement reached outside of court with her millionaire husband, J. Stanley Joyce, Chicago lumberman, and fled today, when hearing of his action to annul the marriage was reopened.

Mrs. Joyce relinquishes her right to a $250,000 home in Miami, Fla., which Joyce purchased for her shortly after their marriage, Jan. 23, 1920; gives him a deed to his property in Connecticut, and returns $400,000 worth of jewels purchased from a Paris jeweler, but not paid for. The jeweler recently filed suit against Joyce here to collect on notes given for the gems.

Mrs. Joyce also releases title to temporary alimony of $13,150 a month, awarded to her last spring but never paid by Joyce. Joyce testified his assets aggregated $2,995,186.

TAX BILL PASSES SENATE; READY FOR CONFEREES

Vote Early Today, After 16-Hour Session, 38 to 24; Bill May Reach President This Month.

EVENTUAL TAX CUT "ABOUT $750,000,000"

Houses Agree on Three Major Provisions, Including Repeal of Excess Profits and Transportation Taxes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The tax revision bill now faces its third rewriting, this time by the House and Senate conferees.

The measure finally was passed early today by the Senate, 38 to 24, the end of a continuous session lasting nearly 16 hours. It will be returned to the House today, and Republican leaders there plan to send it to conference Thursday. It may reach the President for his approval late in the month.

Senate conferees on the bill have been named as follows:

Penrose, McCumber, and Smoot, Republicans; Simmons and Williams, Democrats.

At a rough estimate Treasury experts say the bill in its present form would net approximately $3,250,000,000 or $200,000,000 less than the present law, and about the amount of revenue which Treasury officials have said the Government must have.

Eventually the bill, the experts assert, would reduce the nation's tax toll by about $750,000,000 a year. While they undoubtedly will make many changes in the measure, the conferees are not expected to alter materially the total of revenue.

As the bill now stands there are just three major provisions on which the House and Senate agree. They are repeal of the excess profits tax and the transportation taxes on next Jan. 1, and the retention of the present tax on corporation capital stock.

Outstanding provisions of the bill are: A reduction in the minimum tax rate from 65 per cent on all over $1,000 to 50 per cent on "over $200,000, as against the House reduction to 32 per cent on all over $69,000.

Retention of the House provision granting increased exemptions of $500 to heads of families having net incomes of $500 or less and $200 on account of dependents.

Repeal of the $2000 normal exemption to corporations except in the case of those having net incomes of $25,000 or less.

An increase in the estate tax maximum rate from 25 per cent on all over $100,000 to 50 per cent on all over $100,000,000. Increased taxes on medicinal beer, wine and whisky.

A provision taxing gifts of property by any person at rates ranging from 1 per cent on the amount between $20,000 and $50,000 to 25 per cent on all over $100,000,000.

Repeal of the excise taxes on chewing gum, sporting goods, musical instruments, electric fans and many other articles as well as the stamp taxes on proprietary medicines and toilet preparations. The levies on fountain drinks and ice cream also are out.

Where the fight between the Senate and House is expected to develop over the income surtax rate with the general belief at both ends of the Capitol that the conferees will reach a compromise at a figure around 40 per cent. House Republican leaders believe they can scotch the movement among some Republicans from Western States to have the House instruct its managers to accept the Senate maximum rate.

MAIL CLERK TELLS HOW ROBBERS DYNAMITED CAR, AND WOUNDED THREE MEN

Thomas Baker Describes Holdup of Limited in Which Gang Is Thought to Have Obtained Only $400 After Fight With Crew.

By Long Distance Telephone to the Post-Dispatch.

MATTOON, Ill., Nov. 8.—Thomas Baker, railway mail clerk, today told, at his home here, his story of the spectacular holdup of the Illinois Central's New Orleans Limited train near Paxton, midway between this city and Chicago, last night.

The robbers wounded three men and used dynamite and nitroglycerin in forcing the opening of the mail car door, which those on duty inside had closed. To compel the clerks to come out, they threw burning waste into the car, setting fire to its contents. Passengers, firing on the robbers, added to the danger of the crew. The robbers are believed not to have obtained any mail matter of great value, as a pouch containing a large sum of money, which they took from the car, was dropped in their flight, and was recovered by the train crew. The loss of mail matter by fire was considerable.

Postal authorities at Chicago estimate the robbers got only $400 or thereabouts in ordinary registered letters. They left behind a sack thought to contain $100,000 in registered matter.

Tells of His Experience.

Clerk Baker, telling of his experience in the mail car, said:

"We were sorting the mail when we noticed that the emergency brakes had been applied and that was the first we knew that anything was wrong. The train came to a sudden stop and then there was a knock on the door of the mail car and somebody outside said: 'This is the engineer. Open up. I want to get a monkey wrench.'"

"We knew the engineer would not be coming back to the mail car for a wrench, and we decided not to open the door. About this time the lights in the car were switched off and we were in darkness with the doors locked. Then we heard cursing and swearing outside, with demands that we open the door.

"Shooting started and several bullets came through the glass panels in the door. We crouched down and let them shoot, knowing that the darkness would be a protection even if they broke the door.

"Then we heard an explosion under the south end of the car and a little later under the north end. After a few minutes there was an explosion under the center of the car. These explosions loosened the door so they could push it in.

"Fire Forced Clerks to Get Out.

"They then forced the engineer to climb into our car and ask us to come out. We still wouldn't come and they made the engineer throw burning waste on the mail to start a fire. We held out until the fire forced us to leave the car.

"As I got out one of the robbers hit me on the head with a revolver. Before this I had seen five men besides the engineer. I think the robbers took only two sacks of mail. I was dazed after being hit, but it seemed to me some of the robbers ran east and some ran west after the robbery."

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 8.—J. E. Fogarty, engineer of the Illinois Central Limited, and the only member of the train crew who escaped uninjured in last night's robbery, told how the bullets flew past him, how he saw two of his companions shot, and other experiences, here this morning.

"The first intimation I had of the robbery came shortly after I had left Paxton," he said. "I was reaching down to pick up a glove when I heard a grunt. I turned around. A masked man clambered down from

By the Associated Press.

VERSAILLES, France, Nov. 8.—The trial of Henri Landru, the "Bluebeard of Gambais," which was begun here yesterday with the selection of the jury and various formalities, was resumed this afternoon with Landru himself on the witness stand. The direct examination of the prisoner was conducted by the court, which began questioning him regarding his connection with the disappearance of his 11 alleged victims—10 women to whom he is said to have promised marriage and the son of one of the women.

SIX MEN KILLED IN ELECTION FIGHT IN BREATHITT COUNTY

Five Others Wounded in Clayholme Precinct on Troublesome Creek, Near Jackson, Ky.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Ky., Nov. 8.—Six men were killed and five others were wounded in an election fight shortly after the polls opened at the Clayholme voting precinct on Troublesome Creek, Breathitt County, about 15 miles from here, today.

The dead: Cleveland Combs, 35 years old; Leslie Combs, 37; Ephraim Allen, 35; George Allen, 31; John Roberts, 30; George McIntosh, 30.

The wounded: William Barnett, 50; Ed Davis, 45; Will Davis, 30; French Combs, 35; Tom McIntosh, 30.

A special train has been sent from Jackson with physicians to attend the wounded.

The story of the affray as it has reached Jackson is to the effect that Combs, an uncle of the Combs boys, and defeated Democratic candidate in the August primary for County Judge, was active in support of the Republican nominee for the same office.

It is said, entered the polling place today and attempted to give orders to the election officers. His relatives, according to the story, remonstrated with him and out of the argument grew a fight in which pistols were drawn and the shooting became general.

Watches Effect of Charges.

As the intimate details of murder after murder were read out, his gaze shifted to the jury to see how they took the charges that he sold even the most trifling of his victims' possessions, such as the umbrella of one fiancée, which brought him 30 cents; the gold tooth of another for $1 and the false hair of a third for $3.

It is charged that the murders continued from 1914 until about the time of the peace conference. Had the war continued the crimes might have gone on, too, as it is alleged the prisoner benefited to a considerable extent by the general confusion of war time.

With his brown beard, bald head, sharp features, bushy curving eyebrows, sunken brilliant brown eyes and ashen pallor he suggested an Assyrian priest rather than the automobile agent that he is. On entering the court he made a brave show of smiling at his lawyer, but it was plainly seen that he was shaking and compelled to clutch the rail—a far cry from the gay, witty Lothario that the press has pictured.

Almost all of the 120 witnesses were women, mostly plain and belonging to the small shopkeeping class. They were attired in special black costumes for the occasion. The public gallery, however, was overflowing with fashionable Parisiennes come to see the prodigious lover.

Cameras in Constant Use.

During the day the clicking of the cameras from all corners continued. The frail, little stick of a man was without a single friend in the courtroom this morning.

Harding to Recommend Removing Causes and Then Reducing Armaments

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—PRESIDENT HARDING has virtually completed the address he will deliver Saturday at the opening of the armaments conference, in which he will state in general terms only the desire of the American Government to remove the causes for heavy armaments and then reduce the armaments themselves.

It was apparent in high official circles today that the President, in his keynote speech, would indicate broadly his attitude toward the negotiations by confining his statement to general principles and not by attempting to present a detailed solution of any of the problems before the conference. That function, it was said, would be left to the delegates themselves, with the President advising with them only when vital decisions are to be made.

Secretary of State Hughes announced yesterday that the opening session of the Conference on Limitation of Armaments will begin at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning, Nov. 12, in the auditorium of Continental Memorial Hall, loaned for the purpose by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

RESOLUTION

TO SUCCESS

Motion to Request American Delegates to Use Influence in Favor of Opening Conference to Newspapers Approved Without Record Vote.

PREMIER BRIAND AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Prime Minister and Other French Delegates Welcomed to Washington Yesterday by Secretary Hughes and Gen. Pershing.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The American delegation to the conference on limitation of armaments was requested in a resolution offered by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, and adopted today by the Senate, to use its influence for the making public of the record of conference proceedings and for admission of newspaper men to all meetings of the full conference.

The resolution was adopted without a record vote after elimination at the suggestion of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, Republican leader, and one of the American delegates, of a clause requesting the American delegates to work against any form of censorship as applied to the conference.

The resolution recited hopes for success of the conference and stated that the Senate "believes that the greatest publicity to which, in reason, consideration of the questions for which the conference is called will admit, will tend towards the success of the conference."

Text of Resolution.

The resolution as adopted follows: Whereas, the Senate of the United States wishes every success for the Conference on Limitation of Armaments, called by President Harding, to meet in the city of Washington on the eleventh day of November, 1921; and

Resolved, That the Senate of the United States respectfully requests the representatives of the Government of the United States at the conference to use their influence to have the conference admit representatives of the press to the meetings of the full conference, where the questions for which the conference was called are considered.

Resolved, further, That the Senate of the United States respectfully requests the representatives of the Government of the United States at the conference to use their influence to have the conference maintain and preserve a record containing the proceedings of the conference, when the matters for which the conference was called are considered and acted upon.

Lodge Favors Publicity.

When the vote was called most of the "yeas" came from the Democratic side and a chorus of "nays" from the Republican side, and the measure was declared adopted.

In opposing the original resolution, Senator Lodge said that he and Senator Underwood had "seen the importance of publicity."

"We realize that success depends

PROBLEMS OF SEA POWER MOST IMPORTANT TO THE UNITED STATES

VALUE OF BATTLE CRUISER TO DECIDE U. S. NAVAL POLICY

Japan's Strength in This Branch of Sea Forces Topic of Discussion Among American Officials.

TABLE OF STRENGTH OF FIVE BIG POWERS

Japan, Already Superior to U. S. in Number of Cruisers, Is Building Eight to Our Six.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Back of the scenes where the American naval program is being mapped out for presentation to the conference on limitation of armament, there is an interesting discussion going on as to the value of battle cruisers. Can the United States afford to let Japan excel in this type of vessel which ever since the battle of Jutland has stirred up naval critics? There are two schools of thought—those who believe the battle ship is the craft that must eventually bear the brunt of a sea struggle, and those who believe that without battle cruisers the United States cannot hope to compete with Japan in the Pacific.

The truth is, the United States has battle cruisers, building and would enter the coming conference with more ease of mind if those vessels were already in commission. For many years the movement for reduction of armament has suffered because the leading naval powers did not wish to place themselves on an inferior basis. The present tendency of the Powers is to preserve the ratio of strength that exists but to cut down the expense of useless ships—that is, ships which would be useless if everybody agreed to dispose of auxiliary craft, now out of date.

Is Japan stronger than the United States on the sea? The answer is that it would seem to show the United States as superior, but the naval experts are skeptical. They say the battle of Jutland revolutionized everything—that the battle cruiser is vital. And, of course, the United States is weak in that direction, though opinion may differ as to whether the weakness could be overcome by the preponderance of battleships.

Figures on Naval Forces.

Anyway, it is essential in order to know just what the naval experts are talking about, to study the official figures giving the latest authentic information as to the strength of the five leading naval powers. Here they are:

SHIP	Great Britain	United States	Japan	France	Italy
Battleships	18	10	10	10	10
First line	10	6	6	6	6
Second line	8	4	4	4	4
Battle cruisers	0	10	4	7	4
First line	0	4	4	4	4
Second line	0	6	0	0	0
Cruisers	4	4	8	8	0
First line	4	4	8	8	0
Submarines	10	20	10	10	10

By examining the foregoing table it will be seen that Japan has already in commission four battle cruisers, while the pre-Jutland type, which are considered an invaluable asset in the Pacific. The cruiser type of vessel, being much faster than the battle ship, can get information and draw out enemy vessels and do a whole lot of damage in a preliminary way. The Japanese battle cruisers, which are under construction, are similar to the American types. Japan, however, is building eight and the United States only six, so that Japan, with a total of 12 battle cruisers, would have virtually double the strength of the United States. Assuming, of course, that the viewpoint of the experts who place complete faith in the battle cruiser is accepted. Certainly there is uneasiness in official circles about it. Out of the six battle cruisers authorized, four are well along. But the naval experts insist that any program of reduction ought not to interfere with the opportunity of the United States to place herself at least on an equal footing with Japan in the matter of battle cruisers. With respect to destroyers and submarines, the United States is far ahead of Japan, but the difference in numbers means very little in the theoretical battles fought in Far Eastern waters where Japan possesses so many naval bases. Destroyers and submarines 7000 miles from home are not as effective as those with a base 300 miles away.

British Delegates to Armament Conference Reach Washington

The delegates were greeted on their arrival by United States officials. In the group, left to right are: Major-General Andrew Brewster, U. S. A.; Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to United States; Lady Lee; Lord Lee of Fareham, First Lord of the Admiralty; Edwin Denby, United States Secretary of the Navy; Brinavasa Sastri, counsel of the Indian Government; Sir Robert Borden, former Premier of Canada; Lady Chatfield; Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, U. S. N.

Japan's Attitude.

Japan has come out with a flat statement that she wants her navy to be equal to the size of any fleet now in the Pacific. On the surface that seems a radical statement. But she has practically reached American naval strength now on the battle cruiser program. As for battleships, the United States has a total of 17 as compared with Japan's 13, but the United States doesn't keep all its battleships in the Pacific. Also, the Japanese have built the Nagato, which is the largest and most powerful battleship afloat, and more effective than anything the United States has completed. A sister ship, the Mutsu, is about to be launched. Both vessels mount 18-inch guns. The United States has some under construction of a similar class. Where shall the race stop?

The official figures just available show that out of a total national expenditure, Great Britain is spending 12 per cent, the United States 12 per cent, France, 3 per cent; Italy, 1 1/2 per cent, and Japan, 32 per cent. Limitation of expense is the best way we have, but is it necessary to begin by intimating in the Senate that other nations have asked here are going to try to smother up everything in secrecy? We believe for a time, at least, that they are. The limitation of armament and publicity.

"We favor the greatest measure of publicity," Senator Lodge continued, "that can reasonably be obtained. But we have invited the great nations to meet in a conference. They come to that table as our guests and precisely with the same rights as we do."

"This is a question of procedure, and for the Senate or the House to dictate how they should be conducted, should carry on their business, is not a seemly thing to do. It doesn't seem very good manners."

Senator Lodge said he personally had no objections to the resolution's purpose, but he objected to its attempted dictation to the foreign representatives.

Supporters of Resolution.

Senator Harrison was aiding in pressing the resolution by Senator Johnson. Republican, California; Williams, Democrat, Mississippi, and others.

The Mississippi Senator said the resolution would put "force of execution" behind the Senate's publicity proposal, and was not intended to embarrass the American or foreign delegates.

"It is known that the failure of the Versailles conference was because of secrecy that surrounded its work," said Harrison. "If this conference is a failure, the country wants to know the reason why and they'll never know it if the doors are closed."

Senator Johnson said he could not agree with Senator Lodge's objections. Publicity, the California Senator declared, would be the "armor" of the American delegation.

"When was it that the United States representatives could not be requested by the Senate to act in a certain manner?" asked Senator Johnson, "by asking that former President Wilson at Paris failed, not because his intentions were not good, but because he was locked up in a room over there."

QUESTIONS WHICH AMERICA MUST ANSWER AS TO SIZE AND PURPOSE OF HER NAVY

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. (Copyright, 1921.)

In this, the sixth and last of a series of preliminary dispatches on the Armament Conference, David Lawrence, a special Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, tells the crux of the whole situation and predicts the success of the conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.

After all the formalities and ceremonies are out of the way and the armament conference gets down to brass tacks, the United States Government, if it desires to assume the leadership, must answer for itself these questions:

What shall be the purpose of the United States Navy in the future? Shall it be large enough simply to relieve distressed Americans in various parts of Central and South America? If so, then a few ships are sufficient.

Shall the navy be big enough to defend the Atlantic and Pacific coasts from any enemy whatsoever? Then it must be as large as the greatest navy, namely the British.

Shall the American navy be as large as that of any Power except America and Great Britain? Shall it always be greater than that of Japan? The answer is the maintenance then of a navy as big as our present establishment and the continuance of the present cost.

In other words, what is the foreign policy of America to be—aggressive or defensive, world-wide or purely national?

Obviously it would be cheaper if America and Great Britain could agree to act together in the future as they did in the European war. The combined strength of the two navies would be able to overcome any potential foe. But an alliance with one nation is considered dangerous—it only leads to the growth of other alliances to offset the first. So a general combination of all naval Powers bound together to preserve the peace would be the cheapest proposition that could be made—a association of nations.

Woodrow Wilson's Proposal.

Woodrow Wilson thought reduction of armament expense would follow universal adoption of the League of Nations. His formula has been rejected for the time being by the United States. President Harding has another formula, less rigid than Mr. Wilson's, but having for its object international co-operation as expressed in the Republican national platform of 1920—namely, agreement among nations to reduce armament and preserve peace.

If America decides that each nation ought to be permitted to fulfill its aspirations along national lines, then the demand for common concern and consultation. Mr. Wilson's league was interpreted as involving physical force at once to punish such of today resting at his hotel, while other members of the delegation settled themselves in their quarters and prepared for the important work ahead.

The first engagement on the French Premier's program was an appointment for luncheon with Ambassador Jusserand at the French Embassy. M. Briand will go to the White House at 3 o'clock to pay his respects to President Harding.

Briand Welcomed on Arrival Yesterday by Hughes and Pershing.

Arriving last yesterday, the distinguished French visitors were met at Union Station by Secretary Hughes, Gen. Pershing, Admiral Cointer and other American officials, and were escorted by the new Willard Hotel, which will be their headquarters here. All expressed delight with their reception both in New York and in Washington but they reserved until later statements on problems confronting the conference.

After introductions had been exchanged in the President's room of the station, Premier Briand and the French delegation were escorted by the French staff officials, were escorted through the plaza entrance and into automobiles waiting to take them to their downtown residences. Then came the bugler's call "attention," and the squadron of cavalry presented arms.

Escorted by Cavalry.

The military band followed with the "Marseillaise" while members of the staff stood at attention. After the band played the "Star Spangled Banner" the visitors, preceded by the cavalry squadron, were taken to their hotel.

Other members of the delegation to arrive last night were Rene Viviani, Deputy and former Premier of France, and Albert Sarraut, Senator and Minister of Colonies, both of whom are delegates to the conference.

Admiral de Bon and Philippe Berthelot, in addition to Gen. Buat, comprise the principal advisory members of the group.

M. Briand expressed pleasure over his reception.

"Did you see the capitol?" one of his callers inquired.

"I saw a dome," he responded, "and made the deduction that it was the capitol. If the problems of the conference should be as easily solved, it would not offer any difficulty."

The Premier said he would rather not touch upon the subject of the conference until he has had opportunity of being received by President Harding.

35,054 HAVE SIGNED AS PEACE RECRUITS

Large Crowd Hears Disarmament Appeals of Clergymen and War Veteran in Street.

An applauding crowd that half filled Olive street in front of the Federal Building at noon today for the daily program of the "Citizens' Army for Lasting Peace" for disarmament week, heard Bishop Tuttle of the Episcopal Church deliver a prayer for the success of the coming conference at Washington, the Rev. Dr. E. Combs Smith of the Maple Avenue Episcopal Church argue for the reduction of arms, and Rabbi Louis Witt of Shaare Emeth Temple speak in favor of complete disarmament.

Private A. C. Nisbet, a veteran of the Oklahoma-Texas Division of the war, who was badly wounded, and who was in a Jefferson Barracks hospital patient, presented a word-picture of the horrors of war as an argument against the arming of nations. Arthur Morey discussed the advantages of peace from the viewpoint of business and the people in general.

Speaking of the calling of the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments, the Rev. Dr. Smith said: "This step coming at this late hour is the American apology for not entering the League of Nations."

Rabbi Witt declared that the people have been misled by the phrase, "reduction of arms," and that the disappearance of arms is what should be accomplished. "If you take their rifles, though, they will still have revolvers," he said, "and if you take those away, they will seize clubs. If the clubs are removed they will still have their fists. What must be done, then, is to remove the causes of hatred and fear."

Women in Costume.

A group of women in European folk costumes stood on the platform in front of the Federal Building behind American flags on staffs held by young men. A group of trumpeters played several fanfares and the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Mrs. Louis J. Brooks, president of the Board of Religious Organizations, released a pigeon which symbolized the sending of a message to President Harding, relating the sentiment here for success at the conference. The real message was sent by telegram and announced that 35,054 signatures had been obtained in St. Louis on the peace scrolls in the interest of disarmament, up to last night, 1921 having been obtained yesterday. Women circulated in the crowd during the program and obtained signatures.

Members of the Council of Jewish Women were in charge of recruiting for the "Peace Army" today, under Mrs. Albert Stix, Mrs. Virgil Deeb and Miss Irma Cohn. Later, the scrolls are to be sent to President Harding in charge of Capt. Charles Thornburn of the American Legion and Private Nesbit.

Japanese Woman of 90 Presents Peace Petition to Harding.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A petition 100 yards long, bearing the names of 10,500 Japanese women was presented to President Harding yesterday. It expressed the hope that the arms conference in Washington will prove the means for promoting world peace. Mme. Kai Yajima, 90 years old, the famous Japanese educator, who comes to America as the representative of the Christian women of Japan, presented the petition.

"I saw a dome," he responded, "and made the deduction that it was the capitol. If the problems of the conference should be as easily solved, it would not offer any difficulty."

The Premier said he would rather not touch upon the subject of the conference until he has had opportunity of being received by President Harding.

Mme. Yajima is the Japanese leader of this body. Her petition contained the names of many not of the Christian faith. The signatures were gathered in two weeks after it became known that she would come to this country.

President Harding expressed pleasure that Mme. Yajima had come to Washington and declared that he was glad to know that, despite her ninety years, she could be so useful in the work of the world.

He made no remarks on the general subject of limiting armaments.

The united voice of virtually all the Protestant churches of America, with their 23,000,000 members, in approval of the arms conference, was represented at the White House in resolutions delivered by Graham Patterson, president of the Christian Herald, and Dr. Charles M. Sheldon, its editor in chief. The resolutions of the various churches said:

"Resolved, That we, the pastors, officers and members of the church do hereby express our hearty approval of the action of President Harding and pledge to him our support in every effort to bring about world peace."

FRANCE HOPES TO BRING WORLD FINANCE PROBLEMS BEFORE ARMS CONFERENCE

Unconcerned About Sea Power, Skeptical on Reduction of Land Forces, Delegates Favor Stabilizing Exchange to Aid Overburdened Nations.

By LINCOLN EYRE. (Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Premier Briand and his associates of the French delegation to the Washington conference set foot on American soil yesterday firmly resolved to support wholeheartedly any definitive plan for world pacification and armament limitation consistent with the security of France.

It is their firm conviction, however, that substantial progress can be recorded at Washington only on condition that the Powers assembled there find some solution of the harassing problems of international finance.

The French have no intention of forcing their views in this respect upon the Harding administration. M. Briand is willing to let America's spokesmen talk first. He is eager, moreover, to demonstrate French sympathy with the American desire to straighten out the tangles in the Far East on the basis of the Hay doctrine. But he feels certain, and so does every member of his delegation, that sooner or later such complex matters as monetary exchange, interrelated indebtedness and allied indebtedness to the United States, and German reparations, inevitably must come up for discussion.

Loucheur to Replace Briand.

This is why, as the Post-Dispatch was informed yesterday by one of the principal French delegates, it is the Premier's present plan to send Louis Loucheur, Minister of the Liberated Regions, to Washington immediately after his return to Paris early next month. M. Loucheur will take command of the delegation upon the departure of former Premier Viviani, who will be chief delegate the interval between M. Briand's sailing and his own a fortnight later.

The Minister of the Liberated Regions is at once the richest man in France and the best-informed authority on financial questions. Originally the French Government meant to have him accompany M. Briand, but this scheme was abandoned when the State Department indicated its distaste of French and Belgian proposals for raising the financial issue at the outset of the conference. Even today the French will not admit that there is any wish on their part to press the issue.

The presence on the Lafayette of five of the foremost financial statesmen in France is a concrete evidence of the importance French attaches to financial readjustment. M. Loucheur's attendance can have only one meaning: The inauguration of a comprehensive investigation of the world's economic situation. And that is what, at bottom, France is most desirous of seeing emerge from the delicate negotiations to be initiated next Saturday.

France Against War in the Pacific.

Politically, the French delegates will strive to lessen the danger, as it appears in French eyes, of a disastrous conflict between the United States and Japan. The vast majority of thinking Frenchmen believe that hostilities in the Pacific would be detrimental, if not crushing, to the country's interests, because France, if she is to regain economic stability, must reorganize on a peace footing and not under the artificial conditions generated by war—a war in which one is neutral.

Where disarmament is concerned, M. Briand and his companions are frankly skeptical. They will want any program for naval reduction as a course, for the reason that France is no longer a first-class Power at sea. But they cannot see how agreement among the United States, Great Britain and Japan can be reached in a degree productive of substantial diminution of naval strength.

The French position on limitation of military force is simply this: Firmly resolved to run no risk on the maintenance of her army at its present level of some 700,000 men, the figure her military experts deem essential to her safety—unless and until America joins with Britain in a formal undertaking to come to the aid in the event of German aggression. That the Harding administration will even consider entering into an arrangement of this kind the French are far too realistic even to hope.

FIVE YEARS FOR MAN CONVICTED OF TOWER GROVE MAIL ROBBERY.

Alfred A. Oliver of 2113A Park avenue, who last Saturday was found guilty by a jury in the Federal Court of complicity in the holdup of a Missouri Pacific mail train near Tower Grove Station the night of Aug. 18, 1920, when $25,000 in cash and a large number of Liberty bonds, money-order blanks and quantity of jewelry were stolen by two armed robbers, was today sentenced by Judge Farris to serve currently two sentences of five years each in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

in the final drive in the last night to pass the bill amendments were offered, but they were not accepted. Most important of those approved, was a bill to prevent evasion of the tax by wealthy individuals distribution of their property to their relatives.

Under another amendment realized by the taxpayers from sale of corporation stock was taxed on the full amount instead on only 40 per cent, as claimed would be the case if capital asset definition in the law remained unchanged.

Features of the Bill.

Besides changes noted, it would repeal taxes on partnerships, umbrellas, parasols, shades, picture frames and articles of wearing apparel (except luxury taxes), insurance proceeds made of fur, moving pictures, admissions where the net does not exceed 10 cents, pleasure and canoeing less than thermos bottles and jugs, bed indemnity and surety (stamp) Tax proposed to be reduced from 3 per cent, on candy from 10 to 5 per cent, capital stock having a par value of less than a share (stamp taxes), cereals from 15 per cent of 10 cents to 5 cents a gallon, unfilled fruit juices, from 10 per cent to 5 cents a gallon, carbonated beverages from 10 per cent of the sale price to 2 cents a gallon, plus 5 cents a gallon, syrups used in their manufacture.

Debate on the Simmons McKellar amendments to the part of the interest on the debt to finance adjusted cotton for the former service men was deferred five hours. Both were rejected. The Simmons amendment 42 to 23 and the McKellar amendment 44 to 25. The Simmons amendment was as follows:

For the amendment: Rep. La Follette, Johnson, Keeney, La Follette and Norris—5. Against: Ashurst, Clegg, Cullum, Fletcher, Gerry, SENATE; READY FOR CONFIRMATION.

ULSTER'S STATUS IS DISCUSSED AT IRISH CONFERENCE

Chief British Negotiators Confer Pending Arrival of Cabinet From Belfast to Consider Proposals.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 3.—An important meeting for consideration of phases of the Irish question was held in Downing Street today, the participants being the majority of the Government's negotiators, including Prime Minister Lloyd George, Winston Churchill, Austen Chamberlain, Lord Birkenhead and Sir Gordon Hewart. It is believed the meeting mainly concerned itself with the legal steps necessary to fulfill the Government's pledge to Ulster that the Ulster Parliament will be enabled to function properly and be provided with funds.

Action along these lines, it is pointed out, does not seriously affect the general negotiations for an Irish settlement, for under the Government's plan Ulster would be left a local Parliament with more power than the present Parliament has. Desmond Fitzgerald of the Sinn Féin delegation said, on behalf of himself and his colleagues, that they were taking no part in the talks between Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, and Lloyd George, and were merely waiting until the British Prime Minister could put to them a practical proposition recognizing the unity of Ireland.

Michael Collins, and George Garahan Duffy, the two Sinn Féin negotiators who went to Dublin at the weekend, returned to Sinn Féin headquarters in London today. It is not expected, however, that they will be asked to attend further conferences with British representatives before Friday, by which time the consultations between Lloyd George and Sir James Craig and the latter's colleagues in the Ulster Cabinet, who have been summoned to London, will possibly be concluded.

Members of the Ulster Cabinet were summoned to London by Premier Sir James Craig, to consider proposals made by the British Government in connection with the Irish peace negotiations, and Sir James is to confer further with Premier Lloyd George Thursday afternoon. These developments, announced officially, are deemed here to indicate an approaching climax in the discussion of an Irish settlement.

Sinn Féin delegates here declare that their proposals to the British Premier with respect to Ulster are liberal enough to allow of a settlement if Ulster chooses.

Craig's Stiff Attitude.
The serious view taken in official circles is said to be due to the stiff attitude assumed by Sir James in his conference with Premier Lloyd George. He is represented as signifying that the proposed basis of settlement submitted by the British Premier would, in his opinion, seriously imperil Ulster's rights. Should this attitude be upheld by the Ulster Cabinet and the Government proposals rejected, it is regarded as possible that Premier Lloyd George will carry out his threat to tender his resignation. Everything, consequently, is thought to hinge upon Thursday's developments.

Although the morning newspapers generally recognize that the calling of the Ulsterites to London is a significant step which cannot fail to produce important developments, they do not accept the view that it indicates a further hardening of Ulster's attitude or adds to the acuteness of the situation. They point out that it has been recognized from the start that Ulster was not likely to moderate its known point of view or meet suggestions of compromise with alacrity.

Ulster No Longer Afloat.
What seems to have happened, according to several accounts, is that the Ulster Premier, while modifying in no degree his known attitude in regard to Ulster's rights, has merely consented to examine the proposals with his colleagues. Upon these proposals, in the opinion of the British and Sinn Féin negotiators, dominion home rule for all Ireland might be based without infringing Ulster's autonomy or offending Irish national opinion.

The outstanding fact, says the Times, is that tripartite negotiations are now in progress, and Ulster no longer stands completely aloof.

POLICE FIND FIFTH LARGE STILL IN ITALIAN QUARTER.

Murdered Men Follow Noses Into Stable and Find 15,000 Gallons of Mash.

A still in operation, together with a vat estimated to contain about 15,000 gallons of mash, was found by mounted policemen at 3:30 a. m. today when they followed their noses into a stable at the rear of the home of George Pagano, 5329 Southwest avenue. It was the fifth large still found in the Italian quarter, in the southwest part of the city, since Saturday night, when Police Inspector Gark and his squad found the first one on Bischoff avenue.

The police reported the still in the stable admitted five gallons of alcohol in a period of 15 minutes while they watched it before putting out the fire. Twenty gallons of alcohol in cans also was found in the stable. Pagano said he had rented the stable to others.

POLICEMAN SUSPENDED AS RESULT OF SHOOTING CASE

Edward Schnarr Denies Charges Growing Out of Wounding of John Lavelle by Harry Henry.

Edward Schnarr, 42 years old, of 2944 Winnebago street, a policeman of the Soudard District, was suspended when he reported for work last night, by Capt. Kirk, on charges of unbecoming conduct, drinking while in uniform, entering a saloon not in discharge of his duty, and neglect of duty.

The charges grew out of the shooting of John Lavelle, 36, 1610 Carroll street, a switchman, yesterday at 3:30 a. m., at the corner of California and Geyer avenues, near a saloon in which several men had engaged in a dice game. They accuse the patrolman of having participated in the dice game.

Following the dice game there was a quarrel over money owed, and the shooting of Lavelle followed. Harry Henry, 45, of 1821 California avenue, a street car conductor, is under arrest, and is said by the police to have admitted the shooting of Lavelle in self-defense. He also is said to have told the police that he met Policeman Schnarr near the saloon after the shooting and that Schnarr told him to "beat it" in a hurry.

Policeman Schnarr denies being in the saloon and all the charges against him.

The illustration, reading from the bottom up and across from left to right, shows—

A silvered green taffeta party dress is cool and radiant with its close little slip, fluffy with graduated ruffles on the skirt.

Navy twill is most effective in squirrel gray bands of tufted yarn and gray Canton vest and revers. Perfection of tailoring is a notable asset.

Lace, thin and dainty, flows airily into would-be sleeves and side panels on the skirt in this Canton crepe dress over black satin.

Monkey fur is the point of grace in this black Canton frock, though a silvered chatelaine girdle and distinctive neckline and sleeves are close rivals.

The wooden beads of red and blue and beige might have adorned the storied Indian Princess—but they choose to adorn a most desirable street frock of navy tricotine.

A little basque, wayward ways of moire ribbon on the skirt, and a demurely pleated undervest of Canton crepe—make a brown velveteen frock a delight to wearer and beholder.

When navy tricotine chooses exact tailoring, a coat design, and self-color embroidery to edge the opening, with a dot of henna and shimmer of nail heads—there is nothing left to do but admire.

Black velvet with tiny panniers and wide sleeve bands of dull gold and henna embroidery.

Brown meteor grows elaborate with an intricate embroidery of crystal beads. The closely beaded sleeves and looped irregular hemline are quite unusual.

A fascinating combination of navy tricotine with sleeves and side pieces of navy Georgette, with ribazine banding. The dropped shoulder and full sleeves are quaintly becoming.

Front and back panels of dull black Canton crepe accentuate the filminess of a slim black lace dinner dress—severely plain and very effective.

About 50 sample dresses are included—only one of a kind.

FOREST FIRES STILL BURNING

Damage Near Corning, Ark., Estimated at $50,000. CORNING, Ark., Nov. 2.—Forest fires along the Black River bottoms continued to rage south of here today. Damage in Clay County will amount to at least $50,000, according to A. C. Ballus, Marshal of Corning. It was estimated that already approximately 100,000 feet of timber in this district has been destroyed, and that thousands of acres of grazing land has been ruined for the winter range. The fire is extending toward Paragould.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 2.—The forest fires between here and Dudley had subsided today, as a result of efforts of farmers, who fought the flames day and night. Damage to ranges alone in this vicinity was estimated at $50,000.

PETITION FOR RECEIVER FOR INSURED INVESTMENT CO.

Stockholders Allege Officers Have Made Unnecessary Expenditures for Rent. Nine stockholders owning 3850 shares of the Insured Investment Co., 220 Douglas's Bank Building, today filed a petition in the Circuit Court for the appointment of a receiver for that company, which was organized last August to deal in oil, coal and gas rights and leases. The petition says the stock was divided into 5,000,000 shares of no par value. The defendants named are Charles M. Viley, president, and John Henderson, William B. Bauer, Frank H. Read and Walter Dumont, trustees. The petition alleges that the company has not transacted the business for which it was organized and that officers have made unnecessary expenditures for office rent and clerk hire. It also is alleged that until Oct. 4 the company had $27,004.81 on deposit in the Republic National Bank, but since then the bank has applied this money as a credit on a demand note given by Viley. The petition says the expenses of the company have been $325.40 and the claims of creditors amount to $4441.47. Two of the plaintiffs, Lorenzo Norvell and J. M. Kurn, are trustees. The other plaintiffs are R. L. Howes, William H. Whitlock, John F. Bruen, J. Kennedy, G. E. Williams, E. E. Penney and Emily K. Bruen. The petitioners allege that Norvell and Kurn called a meeting of the trustees for Oct. 20, but when they went to the company's office, 913 Boatmen's Bank Building, they found the door locked and a sign on it: "Moved to 920." The door of 920 also was locked, the petition says. The plaintiffs allege they have paid $3550 on their holdings of stock.

15 TO 20 MEN, SENTENCED TO REFORMATORY, AT LIBERTY

Sidener to Ask for Investigation of Policy of Handling Convicts at Booneville. The system in vogue at the State reformatory at Booneville, which permits men and boys sentenced to that institution to have entire liberty, working and residing away from the institution, is the subject of protest by Circuit Attorney Sidener, who announced today that he will ask for an investigation. The Circuit Attorney's protest was inspired by the refusal of Charles Dorste, 30 years old, to testify for the State in a case of automobile theft. Dorste was sentenced to the reformatory for five years last June 9 on his promise to the Circuit Attorney that he would testify against others alleged to have been involved with him in the theft of automobiles. There are between 15 and 20 men at Booneville, who were sentenced to the reformatory, but who are permitted to work and reside away from the institution, reporting to the reformatory once a month by telephone. The system was described in the Post-Dispatch May 10, after Gov. Hyde had expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the reformatory was being conducted.

AUTO AND 200 QUARTS OF WINE STOLEN FROM HOME IN COUNTY

Machine Valued at $3000 and Liquor at $4000 Taken From Premises of C. R. D. Meier. Burglars stole a $3000 automobile and about 200 quart bottles of wines of various kinds from the residence of C. R. D. Meier, Kent road, near Clayton road, in St. Louis County, Saturday night or early Sunday morning. Meier today estimated the value of the wines at about $4000. He is president and treasurer of the Heine Safety Oil Co. Mr. and Mrs. Meier attended a dance at the St. Louis Country Club Saturday evening and when they drove home in one of their machines they did not notice if the other one, which was kept in a separate compartment of the garage, was missing. Sunday morning the butler found that a basement window had been forced and the lock of the wooden door to the wine vault battered open. The telephone wires were cut. A maid said she had heard a machine in the yard during the night, but took it to be the Meiers returning home.

SHARP DROP IN HOG PRICES

Lard and Bacon Reach Lowest Level of Season at Chicago. CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Big arrivals of hogs here today and yesterday, the most numerous since last April, have forced prices down sharply both in the hog market and in the provision trade. Hogs dropped in value today 25 cents to 40 cents a hundred-weight, after almost as much of a drop yesterday, with all deliveries of lard and ribs (bacon) tumbling in consequence to the lowest prices touched this season on the Chicago Board of Trade. It was said that farmers finding the grain markets so low as to afford no incentive to rural owners were largely holding back their wheat, corn and oats, and were letting go of their hogs as a means of obtaining ready money.

50-cent Advance on Louisiana Oil. By the Associated Press. SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 2.—With the exception of Caddo heavy, which remains unchanged, the price paid for all grades in crude oil in all districts of the Shreveport territory, including Eldorado, Homer, Haynesville, Caddo light, Crichton, De Soto and Bull Bayou, was increased 50 cents a barrel by the Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana, effective today. The top price is now $2 on Caddo light, Homer, Eldorado and De Soto, $1.55 on Haynesville, $1.50 on Bull Bayou and $1.75 on Crichton.

$5000 BEQUEST OF LIQUOR REFUSED BY THE LEGATEES

Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Decide Such a Legacy Is "Unclean." COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 2.—Charles B. Ferrin, 65 years old, Colorado Springs pioneer business man who died during an operation some time ago, made the Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. of the city his sole heirs to all realty and personal property. He was a bachelor without kin. The personal property includes $5000 worth of whisky of a ripe age, stored in the vaults of the Exchange National Bank. The heirs, one and all, are shocked and positively refuse the liquor, the money it would bring if converted into cash, even if it were possible to sell it, and the realty itself. "We want clean money," they say. "Our work is to reform inebriates and to keep others from strong drink. We do not need such bequests. We do not want unclean money."

Man Slain Defending His Wife. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 2.—Lester Dooley was fatally shot at 2:45 a. m. yesterday as he was arising from his bed to defend his wife from an intruder. He died some hours later. The City Commission has posted a reward of $2500 for the murderer. This makes a total of seven persons who have been killed or fatally wounded by intruders in the last two years.

BALLOT IS CAST FOR WILSON

Chairman of Election Board Acts Under Absentee Law. By the Associated Press. PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 2.—Woodrow Wilson's ballot in the State election was cast for him here today by Holmes B. Larue, chairman of the Mercer County Board of Elections, under the law permitting voting by absent citizens. Although he has not lived here since his first election to the presidency in 1912, Princeton has continued to be Mr. Wilson's legal residence, and, until his illness in 1919, he returned every year to vote.

Let's get to WORK

Relieve Unemployment in the Building Trades This Winter by starting to Build or Remodel NOW

The October 24th Issue of "Commerce Reports" published by the United States Department of Commerce prints a report of the President's Conference on Unemployment, Mr. Herbert Hoover, Chairman, containing

"Emergency Measures Recommended for Recovery of Unemployment" of which the following excerpts are part:

6. Private houses, hotels, offices, etc., can contribute to the situation by making repairs and alterations and doing cleaning during the winter instead of waiting until spring, when employment will be more plentiful.

7. Public construction is better than relief. The municipalities should expand their school, street, and sewage repair work and public building to the fullest possible volume compatible with the existing circumstances. That existing circumstances are favorable is indicated by the fact that over $700,000,000 of municipal bonds, the largest amount in history, have been sold in 1921. Of these, $106,000,000 were sold by 333 municipalities in August. Municipalities should give short-time employment the same as other employers.

11. The greatest field for immediate relief of unemployment is in the construction industry, which has been artificially restricted during and since the war. We are short more than a million homes; all kinds of building and construction are far behind national necessity. The Senate Committee on Reconstruction and Production in March of this year estimated the total construction shortage in the country at between 10 and 20 billion dollars. Considering all branches of the construction industry, more than 2,000,000 people could be employed if construction were resumed.

Thousands of buildings have insufficient or inadequate plumbing or none whatever.

There are also many that should have an inspection of the plumbing to insure functioning as intended. This can be done without regard to inclement or cold weather, which in many localities prevents outdoor work.

By remodeling during the winter, other months may be utilized more for new construction, which promises to be heavy in 1922.

Hotel, Apartment and Garage owners will find the winter admirable for preparation for the coming busy season.

School directors should anticipate their requirements, thus forestalling the annual demand which cannot satisfactorily be supplied during the vacation period.

Anticipate requirements now. Stocks are low and much material required must come from the factories.

Plumbing installed during the winter may also provide work for others, such as carpenters, painters, paper hangers, decorators, etc.

The employment you cause will extend from your city or town to the far distant mills, mines, factories, forests—helping all.

Contracting Plumbers are ready to serve you. Call yours and secure an estimate on that additional, long contemplated bathroom or new 36-inch high kitchen sink.

"Standard" branches and showrooms listed below are at your service for all plumbing requirements. Without any feeling of obligation call at nearest branch for any information desired.

MAYOR HYLAN 7 TO 1 FAVORITE
IN NEW YORK CITY ELECTION

Curran Has Been Fought on Issue of 5-Cent Fare—
A. Curran Chief Opponent.

New York, Nov. 2.—After a reasonably hectic campaign, New York is today voting on a new city, county and borough Government. The Tammany ticket is headed by John F. Hylan, the present Mayor, seeking re-election. His chief opponent is Henry A. Curran, called the coalition candidate, though, as a matter of fact he is the straight Republican organization candidate.

The campaign has been fought out on an entirely false issue, that of the "five-cent fare." Mayor Hylan, through the Board of Estimate, has successfully resisted the efforts of the traction companies to establish a higher base rate of fare on the main trunk line, the subways and the elevated roads, but the traction companies practically wiped out all transfer privileges and discontinued many surface lines. Because of this, the Mayor was put forward by his backers, the Tammany Hall organization, in alliance with William Randolph Hearst, as the savior of the five-cent fare, and after the nomination of Curran he, too, espoused the five-cent fare as a battle cry. The election or defeat of either cannot have the slightest effect on the rate of fare. The last session of the Legislature placed entire control of the matter in the hands of a Transit Commission.

Hylan goes to the polls a seven-to-one favorite in the Wall street betting. An interesting feature of the election will be the race between Miss Anna Mathews and Miss Helen Varich-Bowell, respectively Democratic and coalition candidates for County Registers. This is the first time New Yorkers have been called upon to vote for women for a county office.

Japanese Baron Writes of the 'Dry' Diplomacy He Foresees at Conference

Ambassador Shidehara Tells How "Mr. Nippon" Has Arrived at "Mr. Sam's" Invitation to Discuss Question of Walking Sticks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Baron Shidehara, the Japanese Ambassador, has written humorously to Life, the satirical weekly on the disarmament conference.

"You have asked me for an estimate of the forthcoming conference at Washington for the benefit of the readers of Life," wrote the Ambassador, "and, without referring your request to Tokio for cabinet consideration, I hasten to tell you how Mr. Nippon regards the matter."

"Mr. Uncle Sam, the richest gentleman in the world, has invited a number of his guests to come to his residence in Washington Nov. 11 to consider the question of walking sticks. It is said that there will be a new game, unlike poker, will be played with all the cards face up on the table."

"This is a novel suggestion, but Mr. Nippon is something of a sport and cries 'banzai'—which, in plain United States, means 'bravo.' He speaks this way because he holds a very good hand and knows it—reports to the contrary having been circulated for betting purposes. There are sometimes fortunes to be made by interested persons in judicious deception."

"Nippon is only human. Like other gentlemen, has made other errors in playing the old game of bluff, but the game was one that had been forced upon him. Indeed, it was Mr. Sam himself, followed by Mr. J. Bull and others, who first showed Mr. Nippon the world. If you have been a reader of the papers, Mr. Editor, for as many as 70 years, you will remember that it was Mr. Sam who, in his sporting days, went abroad and discovered the little Japanese fellow, already an old man, living a simple life in a rather humble home on an island off the coast of the vast and mystifying continent of Asia. Mr. Sam was both importunate and imperative, and Mr. Nippon, seeing it was useless to deny, came out of his seclusion, smiled and tried to be polite according to his unsophisticated ways."

"But his manners were misunderstood and he soon realized that he was what is called an 'outsider' and a subject of jeers. He then inquired of a teacher of etiquette and learned that what he lacked was not so much good manners as haughty manner. Bearing, not breeding, the teacher said, was the thing. So Mr. Nippon began to behave somewhat like other gentlemen, changed his paper parasol for a walking stick and kept increasing the size of the stick as the style developed—knowing all the while that the style was vulgar, if not actually inhuman, but having no other recourse."

"Now the world has become more kindly, and great and small people, rich and poor, are invited to Mr. Sam's magnificent mansion to be his guests on democratic terms, to see if they can't get together with him, deal more generously with each other and reduce the significant size of the 'big sticks' to one of decent proportions. 'Hip, huray, banzai!' says Mr. Nippon. 'I am with you! Do you get me?'"

"Favors Stopping 'Backbiting.'"
"In this connection, Mr. Editor, let me say that the Japanese gentleman thinks (and of this I am officially informed), that even more important than such matters as promoting equal opportunity and substituting a face-up game of cards for poker, is that of terminating the habit of backbiting. Such a practice, indulged in by all, is certainly paralyzing to gentlemen whose popular portraits are so benign and inspiring. Mr. Nippon is of the opinion that, if men are ever to cease bludgeoning each other, it is essential to stop the practice of muck-rumormongering."

"There is another matter about which Mr. Nippon might make bold to speak, though he does so with hesitation, desiring in no way, himself, to be critical. It seems to him that Friend Sam is sometimes inclined unduly to criticize others."

GIRL TELLS OF WEDDING
A CONVICT ON PAROLE

Former Miss Lavona Coddling, Daughter of Ex-Warden, Relates Circumstances of Marriage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 2.—Mrs. Lavona Inman, daughter of a former Warden of the State prison at Lansing, Kan., has explained to State officials the circumstances of her marriage in August to Elmer A. Inman, a paroled convict, who has been again indicted.

She was then Miss Lavona Coddling and she and Elmer A. Inman were married in Holdenville, Ok., Aug. 25. Holdenville is in Hughes County.

Mrs. Inman, who came here last week to intercede for the renewal of her husband's parole, after his return to the State prison at Lansing, confessed that she was married to Inman in good faith, after a romance that began on her brother's ranch near Burbank, Ok., when Inman had been temporarily paroled for work in the harvest fields last June.

Have Never Lived Together.
Mrs. Inman asserted the romance did not begin at the State prison, where Inman was a trustee and acted as her father's chauffeur. Mrs. Inman declared, however, that while they were married Aug. 25, they have not at any time lived together as husband and wife.

Inman obtained a temporary parole to work in the harvest fields, not because of Miss Coddling's influence, but because her father, J. K. Coddling, who was Warden at Lansing for many years, believed Inman had reformed. He came to Topeka to intercede for the parole. The parole was granted for a period ending Sept. 1. Inman went to Foraker, Ok., where Harold Coddling, son of Warden Coddling, is a banker and ranchman. Inman went to work for him. Later Miss Coddling, who had been ill, went to her brother's ranch at Burbank to recuperate. There, she says, she met Inman and fell in love with him. She declared that there had been no understanding that she was to meet him there, and that there had been no courtship between them while he was in prison. Five days before the date for Inman's return to Lansing at the expiration of his parole, the couple went to Holdenville and were married by a minister. Miss Coddling was married under her own name of L. D. Coddling.

No Secrecy About Marriage.
There appears to have been no secret made of the marriage in the Coddling family. Mrs. Inman was compelled to return to a hospital for an operation soon after the wedding, and she has only recently recovered. After the marriage Inman began a fight for another parole. Inman's recent arrest in Oklahoma was on a charge of driving a stolen motor car into that State. He was indicted by a Federal grand jury. When Gov. Allen heard of it, he ordered Inman returned to Lansing. The indictment will stand against him in the Federal court until his time expires, unless it is dismissed meantime.

Shooting Followed Fight at Dance.
Zimmerman said that he and Brei-han and Anthony Singer, 3318 14th avenue, arrived at the Turnverein hall where a dance was in progress at 11 p. m. Saturday. The dance hall was on the second floor, and they found James Sneed standing in the head of the stairs, so that Sneed, he said, struck Zimmerman in the face without provocation.

Knocking off Zimmerman's glasses,
Zimmerman and Singer stooped to pick them up, and, rising, Zimmerman said, they saw Sneed knock Breihan down. Then, Zimmerman declared, Sneed drew a revolver and pursued Breihan downstairs and killed him. He heard three shots outside, and, not finding Breihan, they concluded he had gone home, so they left without seeing Sneed again.

Told Brother He Shot a Man.
William Sneed testified that brother came into his saloon at 11
p. m. Saturday, hatless and gave him a revolver with two empty shells, making the statement that he had just shot a man. Then he left.
Breihan was found dead by woman churchgoer, and had one bullet wound. Neither Zimmerman nor any other witness gave any reason to explain why James Brei-han had started an altercation at the dance hall.

BARTENDER, CHARGED WITH MURDER, HELD

James J. Sneed Surrenders Following Inquest Over Clarence Breihan, Shot in Luxemburg.

James J. Sneed, 31 years old, a bartender, of 411 East Espenschied avenue, St. Louis County, is being held in the Clayton jail on a warrant charging murder in the first degree in connection with the death of Clarence Breihan, 26, of 8212 Virginia avenue, who was found, shot through the heart, in a ditch in front of Schiller's Turnverein Hall, 200 West avenue, Luxemburg, at 5 a. m. Sunday.

The warrant against Sneed was issued by Prosecuting Attorney Mueller following the coroner's verdict of homicide, ordering that Sneed be held Sunday afternoon. Sneed went to Clayton last night and surrendered himself to Night Sheriff Oldenworth. He declined to answer questions put by the authorities and was locked up.

The testimony of William Zimmerman, 46 West Davis street, and of Sneed's brother, William Sneed, proprietor of a saloon at 2201 South Broadway, formed the basis of the order to arrest James Sneed.

Shooting Followed Fight at Dance. Zimmerman said that he and Breihan and Anthony Singer, 7816 Ivory avenue, arrived at the Turnverein hall where a dance was in progress, at 11 p. m. Saturday. The dance hall was on the second floor, and they found James Sneed standing at the head of the stairs, he said. Sneed, he said, struck Zimmerman in the face without provocation, knocking off Zimmerman's glasses. Zimmerman and Singer stooped to pick them up, and, rising, Zimmerman said, they saw Sneed knock Breihan down. Then, Zimmerman added, Sneed drew a revolver and pointed Breihan downstairs and out. They heard three shots outside, and, not finding Breihan, they concluded he had gone home, so they left without seeing Sneed again.

Told Brother He Shot a Man. William Sneed testified that his brother came into his saloon at 11:30 p. m. Saturday, hatless, and gave him a revolver with two empty shells, making the statement that he had shot a man. Then he left.

Breihan was found dead by a man churchgoer, and had only one bullet wound. Neither Zimmerman nor any other witness gave testimony to explain why James Sneed should have started an altercation at the dance hall.

BURCH DEFENSE TO BE BASED ON INSANITY PLEA

Judge Says He Is Convinced Man is Sane; Didn't Kill Kennedy, Attorneys Declare.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 8.—Whether the trial of Arthur C. Burch, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, broker, at Beverly Glen, near here, Aug. 5 last, should proceed immediately or be continued for a month, to permit his counsel to obtain evidence in support of their contention he was insane at the time of the alleged murder, is expected to be decided today by Judge Sidney N. Reeve.

The motion for such a continuance and the disclosure that Burch's defense would be insanity, followed a ruling yesterday by Judge Reeve that no hearing before a jury on the matter of Burch's mental condition, as asked for last week by his attorneys, would be granted, the Judge declaring he was convinced Burch was sane.

The long continuance was asked for on the ground that a plea of insanity would be made and that it was desired to support it with affidavits from friends and relatives in and around Chicago, who were said to have observed during the last three years that the defendant had undergone a complete change in his mental state.

Burch's counsel stated they did not believe their client had killed Kennedy, but added that, if he did, "he could not have known the difference between right and wrong in such killing."

Judge Reeve is also expected today to rule upon a motion of counsel for Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, jointly indicted with Burch for the murder of Kennedy, that the indictment against her be dismissed for the reason she had not been given a trial within the statutory period of 90 days after having been indicted. Still another motion made in behalf of Mrs. Obenchain and expected to receive consideration from the Court today, is one for her immediate trial.

MISS WALETTA GILLIAN OF 2614 North Leffingwell avenue, a school teacher, has asked the police to investigate the theft of a diamond ring, valued at $200, stolen from a package delivered to the mail box at her home in her absence yesterday. The package contained three rings sent by her mother in Tennessee and a note explained the contents of the box. The two unused rings were intact but the diamond ring was gone when Miss Gillian examined the package.

WOMAN, HIT BY AUTO, INJURED

Bookkeeper Knocked Down at Seventh and Pine Streets.

Miss Alice J. Charles, 55 years old, of Maplewood, a bookkeeper, suffered a fractured right hip, scalp wounds and cuts and bruises at 2 p. m. yesterday when knocked down by an automobile driven by Mrs. Genevieve Rederer of 3408 Castlemans avenue, at Seventh and Pine streets. She was taken to St. John's Hospital. Mrs. Rederer told the police Miss Charles stepped directly in the path of the auto.

Herman Diekmeyer, 48 years old, of 2923 Lemp avenue, a chauffeur for a cigar company, suffered scalp wounds and cuts and bruises at 3 p. m. when thrown from a truck he was driving in collision with an automobile driven by Gerald McKee of 4975 Wabasha Ridge avenue.

When Listerine meets Halitosis

LISTERINE is a household word. Everyone knows this standard safe antiseptic.

Halitosis isn't a household word. But unfortunately it is only too often a household affliction. Perhaps you don't know what the word means. It is the medical term for unpleasant breath.

If anyone in your household is troubled with halitosis you know it, but he or she may not. If it is serious and apparently chronic you should consult a dentist or physician—the cause lies deep.

But many kinds of halitosis can be well taken care of by Listerine. Insist on everyone at home using it regularly; it is a safeguard against the more usual forms.

STIX, BAER & FULLER—"The Grand-Leader Store"

Story of Career of H. G. Wells; a Draper's Apprentice at 14, He Won Reputation by Achievement

Writer, in U. S. to Describe Armament Conference, Not a British Agent, but an Ordinary Man With a Family.

By MONTGOMERY BELGION.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—"Oh, yes, Wells?" The author of the "Outline," says the Man Who Knows What's What. But an amazing career and bulky preceded the writing of that survey of world history.

"He's going to give the British point of view," complains the Suspicious Person, mindful of European diplomacy at Versailles. But it cannot be emphasized too strongly that Herbert George Wells, whose first article on the international conference at Washington appeared in the World and Post-Dispatch Sunday, is not a British agent, but just an ordinary man, with a wife and two sons, when it comes to his job. And his point of view is that of the ordinary family man in Newark, N. J.; Edinburgh, Marseilles or Nagasaki. The man in any street can safely say "He's one of us," because that is just what he is—only he is an ordinary man, with, in addition to his ordinary ties, his extraordinary experience, a remarkable vision, and that ability not only to accept the evidence of his ears and eyes, but also to think about it—an extremely rare gift.

He is a poor man's son, who has become relatively rich in the way Pathe, the French grocer's lad, became a movie magnate, or Carnegie, the Scottish boy, grew into a power in steel and philanthropy. But, instead of having acquired a certain financial security by devoting his brain to buying and selling, he has attained his position not by striving to make money, but first by thinking.

Reputation From Achievement. And each step in success he has made has opened up new horizons of inquiry for him. Today all his books, novels, essays and romances are translated into many languages. For the movie rights of his novels alone the Gaumont company, it is no secret, paid him $25,000 a year—the salary of an English Cabinet Minister.

He has attained his reputation by achievement in an almost incredible number of directions. There are his scientific romances, his short stories.

As a novelist he has written books which as documents containing the history of our time in a way Macaulay would have delighted to find it for the days of Charles II.

As a thinker he has sown the germ of purpose living in countless young minds. He has evolved whole social systems.

And as a prophet he has proved uncannily accurate, so that if he were to announce the end of the world for next week I for one should immediately buy a ticket for Mars.

Yet throughout he has retained that touch which makes him kin to such a large proportion of the world for next week I for one should immediately buy a ticket for Mars.

That is to say, he is now fifty five.

Early History in Own Words. Hear him tell of his early history in his own words. "I was born in that queer, indefinite class that we call in England the middle class," he wrote in 1908. "I am not a bit aristocratic; I do not know of my ancestors beyond my grandparents and about them I do not know very much, because I am the youngest son of my father and mother, and their parents were all four dead before I was born."

"My mother was the daughter of an innkeeper at a place named Midhurst (in the southwest of Sussex in England), who supplied post horses to coaches before the railways came; my father was the son of the head gardener of Lord Rother's house in Kent. I have had various changes of fortune and position; for the most of his life my father kept a little shop in a suburb of London and eked out his resources by playing a game called cricket, which is not only a pastime, but, like baseball, a show which people will pay to see, and it therefore affords a living for professional players."

The suburb to which Wells refers as his birthplace is Blomley in Kent, now a huge town scarcely separated by a few fields from London proper, but in the year in which he came into the world it was quite an independent large village. Wells has described it vividly in "The New Machiavelli" and in "Kippa."

Apprenticed to Druggist at 13.

"His shop was unsuccessful," he continued, "and my mother, who had been a ladies' maid, became when I was 12 years old (1875) housekeeper in a large country house. I, too, was destined to be a shopkeeper. I left school at 13 for that purpose. I was apprenticed first to a chemist (druggist) and, that proving unsatisfactory, to a draper. But in a year or so it became evident to me that the facilities for higher education that were still available in science and some mediocre honors. And Wells never tires of showing in his writings how, but for the apt stimulus, the timely suggestion that most people would never start the climb to leisure and a full purse, but slide into a dull acquiescence of things as they are."

Life in "the large country house" is also dwelt upon in "Bealby." And the existence of a draper's assistant is rendered with a wistful pathos in "The Wheels of Chance," and shown in its gloomy misery in "Kippa." The days at the Royal College of Science in London come in, too, in "Love and Mr. Lewisham" and in "Ann Veronica." It is always interesting to know where a novelist has obtained his material, but my point here is rather to show how Wells found inspiration and romance in events that countless people meet without a stir. That is one reason why he is considered by many the foremost living writer.

Was Teacher of Science. After obtaining his B. Sc. degree, Wells took up physical astronomy. A useless science, some might say, but think of how it served him later, how it kindled his imagination into conceiving that marvelous short story, "The Star," and those romances, "In the Days of the Comet," the "First Men in the Moon" and "The War of the Worlds."

It was in 1888 that Wells won his degree, and for some years after that he taught science. I remember that when "The New Machiavelli" appeared, some supercilious reviewer in the literary supplement of the London Times declared that this novel showed that Wells had never been within miles of Cambridge school, where Remington, the hero, attends the University. But, as it happens, it was in Cambridge that Wells inculcated the rudiments of biology, there that he wrote his volume on zoology, which was his first publication, and it is still used as a text book. If you want to know how to dissect a rabbit, Wells can tell you as competently as he can show you how you can help remake the world.

But soon he turned to journalism. "I found journalism a more remunerative profession than teaching," he says. "And I always had some little kink in my mind which made the writing of prose very interesting to me."

"I began first to write literary articles, criticism and so forth, and presently short stories, in which I made use of the teeming suggestions of modern science. There is a considerable demand for this sort of fiction in Great Britain and America, and my first book 'The Time Machine,' published in 1895, attracted considerable attention and with two of its successors, the 'War of the Worlds' and 'The Invisible Mind,' gave me a sufficient popularity to enable me to devote myself exclusively and with a certain sense of security to purely literary work."

Wells' First Papers.

As a matter of fact, Wells' first papers were little sketches, often topical, which he contributed to the London Pall Mall Gazette. They were put together in "select conversations with an uncle." Now, it happened that at that time, associated with the Pall Mall Gazette was a weekly publication called the Pall Mall Budget. The editor, C. Lewis Hynd, who is well known in America, and that charming man and delightful poet who was W. E. Henley, encouraged Wells to try his hand at short stories. Again, you observe, the hand of chance. But for this fortunate stimulus Wells might have continued to be an ordinary light essayist. By 1895 he had been made dramatic critic of the Pall Mall Gazette—an appointment which resulted in that amusing yarn, "The Obliterated Man"—and it is easy to imagine that he might have been satisfied with newspaper work.

"The literary life," he goes on, "is one of the modern forms of adventure. Success with a book means in the English speaking world not merely a moderate financial independence, but the utmost freedom of movement and intercourse. A poor man is launched out of his narrow circumstances into familiarity and unrestrained intercourse with a great variety of people. He sees the world; if his work excites interest he meets philosophers, scientific men, soldiers, artists, professional men, politicians of all sorts, the rich, the great, and he may make such use of them as he can."

Desires to Write Impressions. "To be a literary artist is to want to render one's impressions of the things about one. Life has contented me enormously and filled me with ideas and associations I want to present again. I have liked life, and like it more and more. The days in the shop and the servants' hall, the straightened struggles of my early manhood, have stored me with vivid memories that illuminate the wider vistas of my later social experience."

"I have friends and intimates now at almost every social level, from that of a peer to that of a pauper, and I find my sympathies thin spider's web from top to bottom of the social range. I count that wide social range one of the most fortunate accidents in my life; and another is that I am a man of diffident and ineffectual presence, unpunctual, fitful and easily bored by other than literary, so that I am not tempted to cut a figure in the world and abandon that work of observing and writing which is my proper business in it."

The unfolding of the social panorama before Wells in this way happened at an extremely opportune time. The old landed aristocracy of England was passing and being supplanted by the newly arisen commercial magnates. He saw this spectacle vividly just because he passed all along the social gamut, and to find what it meant, as his natural curiosity wanted, he had to think. "There was no ready-made standing ground for me. The beliefs and assumptions of our fathers have decayed or altogether broken down."

Conceived World League in 1911. And this habit of asking himself what was the meaning of what he saw going on grew and grew and led him to wider and wider exploration until from the light social satire of "The Wonderful Visit," he achieved "Tono-Bugay," "Ann Veronica" and "The New Machiavelli," that trio of novels with which our great-grandchildren will be able to compare up a vivid picture of the England of Wells' time.

Incessantly, too, he delved this way and that, peeped into the future, pictured a better, more systematized world, wrote "Mankind in the Making," "Anticipations" and "A Modern Utopia." He gave allegiance for a time to the Socialists and then withdrew it to try and enlist all sorts of men in the cause of establishing a world association of nations. In other words, he conceived a League of Nations in 1911. Thus, while realizing what had happened in England since he had been alive, he also foresaw what was going to befall the world. Three years before the war he passed into his second field, the second phase of his endeavor, in which he has shown himself no parish pump-loving Britisher.

The war, of course, surprised him. He had organized a happy kind of existence at Eaton Globe, Dunmow, Essex, where he still lives as a tenant of the Countess of Warwick. His piano-player, his hockey (as described in "Mr. Britling Sees It Through," his car, provided great fun. His boys were growing up from the little fellows with whom he had played "floor games" and "little wars" and were at Oundle School. His wife, who was Amy Catherine Robbins, and herself an occasional short-story writer, typed his novels, and Arnold Bennett read his proofs. All this was disrupted by the mobilizations of August, 1914.

Yet he had told the world that it was coming. He had traveled a little. He had spent many summers in France, near Rouen, visited Italy and Switzerland. In 1906 he had spent seven weeks in America and written "The Future in America," a book that has had its prophecies, as usual, borne out. In 1914 he took a brief glimpse of Russia. Only in the spring of 1914 he had published "The World Set Free," a novel that showed happening many of the very things that

BURLINGTON ACQUIRES NEW FREIGHT LINE INTO ST. LOUIS

Road Makes Traffic Agreement With the Litchfield & Madison in Outlet to North.

Through a traffic agreement between the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and the Litchfield & Madison Railroad, made known today, the Burlington will acquire a new direct freight line into St. Louis from the North and the L. & M. will acquire an outlet to the north for coal.

The L. & M. is a coal road operating between St. Louis and Litchfield, Ill., 51 miles. Connection with it will be made by the Burlington at Winston. The Burlington's present connection for north and south traffic is with the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern at Shattuck. The new agreement applies only to freight.

Mines on the L. & M. have an output of 10,000 tons a day, all of which has heretofore been shipped into St. Louis. Under the new agreement all or a part of it can be shipped north. The mining companies it serves are the Mount Olive and Staunton Coal Co., the Consolidated Coal Co., the Edwardsville Coal Co. and the New-castle Coal Co., and a connection with the mines of the Donk Bros. Coal and Coke Co. is planned. The mines are at Edwardsville, Worden, Staunton, Mount Olive and Wilson.

STORY OF CAREER OF H. G. WELLS AND HIS ACHIEVEMENTS

came about in the ensuing five years. He had seen the future of the airplane, the doom of the battleship and the importance of the submarine; he had anticipated the advent of the tank.

But the actualities dismayed him. He saw all that he cared for in jeopardy. He, who had been preaching the need for order, saw the world tumbling into chaos. Naturally, he championed better international understanding.

And the desolation which the war spread made him turn to the need of religion. He wanted religion more alive and helpful, and he wrote "The Soul of a Bishop," "The Undying Fire" and "God, the Invisible King." Finally he realized that the world's greatest want is education. He had trouble in finding a suitable school for his own boys. So he came to pen "Joan and Peter," and then to attempt the "Outline of History." Last year he went to Moscow. He saw what he calls "The degradation of civilization" actually taking place. He became convinced that the problem urgently facing all mankind today is "the salvaging of civilization," and thus he has named his latest book.

So here he is, the ideal writer to preach the high ends at which the arms conference should aim and to awaken people to its vital importance.

Proceeds of Life Insurance Policies Main Assets of Estate of Late Head of Chemical Firm.

INVENTORY SHOWS
TOTAL OF $112,195

Large Holdings of Stocks
Mentioned but Not Listed
by Value, Others Pledged to Secure Loans.

Less than $100,000, the proceeds of life insurance policies, will be available for division between the two principal heirs of Herman C. G. Luyties, manufacturer of toilet preparations, as indicated by the inventory of his estate, filed in the Probate Court yesterday afternoon. The principal heirs are Herman C. G. Luyties Jr., of 34 Portland place, the recognized son, and George Hope Luyties, son of Mrs. Claire Giles of 5630 Pershing avenue, and mentioned by Luyties in the will as his son. The will directs that the estate be divided between these two, after the payment of some bequests, the chief of which is $10,000 to Miss Marie Addis of 4125 Lindell boulevard, to whom Luyties was engaged at the time of his death, Sept. 17.

Insurance Chief Item.
The inventory of the estate shows $103,455.40 in life insurance payable to the estate. The only other items listed are chattels, $8450, and cash on hand, $309.68, making a total showing of $112,195.28 personal property.

The $50,000 insurance payable to Luyties' divorced wife, Mrs. May Luyties, and the $25,000 which was payable to his son Herman, do not appear to be included in the inventory, as they would not be considered assets of the estate.

Large holdings of stock are mentioned, but are not listed by value, as it is shown that the stocks of value are pledged as securities for loans. Whether a surplus is likely to remain to the estate, after the loans are satisfied, does not appear from the inventory.

Chemical Shares Pledged.
Luyties' holdings of stock in the Santol Chemical Laboratories, of which he was president, was $5,984 shares of a par value of $10 each. Of this holding, it is stated, 40,897 shares are pledged to Charles T. Walker as security for a loan of $150,000 to the company. On the same loan are pledged 364 shares of the Walker Pharmaceutical Co., at $100 cash.

Six thousand shares of stock owned by Luyties in the Santol Chemical Laboratories were listed as pledged to Paul Mueller as security for a loan of $14,000 due Sept. 8 last.

The furnishings of Luyties' house at 34 Portland place, including the marble statue 9 feet high which he had made in Italy to be erected over his grave, were listed at a value of $6000, and as being pledged as security for a loan of $12,000 from the Eastern Trust Co.

A seven-passenger Packard touring car, valued at $2250, was listed as being held by Fred J. Berkley as security for a loan of $1500, due Dec. 7 next.

Wearing apparel was valued at $200.

Stocks Listed as Worthless.
Stocks listed as worthless, for the reason that the companies have ceased to exist, are:
Gerard Mining Co., 349 shares, par value was $100 a share.
Brotherhood Realty Co., 99 shares, par value was $10 a share.
Well Amusement Co., 385 shares, was $100 a share.
Chicola Manufacturing Co., 260 shares, par value was $10 a share.

Eighteen shares of stock in the St. Louis Coliseum Co., are also listed as worthless. In the Sidney Fairchild Co. of New York, 12,668 shares, par $10 a share, are listed as worthless.

Eighteen shares of the H. C. G. Luyties Realty Co., $100 each par, are mentioned as "value unknown."

SOLDIER SERVES PRISON TERM FOR 'BUDDY' WHO SAVED HIS LIFE
By the Associated Press.
LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 8.—Penniless, Harry W. Haley, overseas war veteran, is at liberty here under a War Department order releasing him from the Federal disciplinary barracks, where he served five months of a six months' sentence for desertion imposed upon Thomas G. Jones, his "buddy," who saved his life while the two men were with the American Expeditionary Force in France.

Haley came to the barracks under the name of "Jones," his reason for serving the sentence being that he wanted to repay part of the debt he felt he owed Jones in saving his life.
Jones, who is said to be married and living in Canada, is being sought by Federal authorities. Because he was not the real offender, Haley was released from the barracks without the usual railroad fare and small compensation given to prisoners.
Haley's life was saved in France by Jones, who had deserted the army in the United States to go overseas with his "buddy," who had joined the Canadian army. Jones married a girl in England just before he returned to Canada, and to clear Jones' record in the United States Haley crossed the border, representing himself as the deserter and served five months in the army barracks before he made known the deception.

PERSHING TO WALK 5 MILES TO BURIAL OF UNKNOWN DEAD
General Declines to Be Grand Marshal, Regarding Himself as Mourner at Symbolic Funeral.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Gen. Pershing will trudge afoot all the long way from the Capitol to Arlington National Cemetery next Friday to pay honor to America's unknown soldier.
The leader, under whom the unknown hero served in France, declined today to serve as grand marshal and ride at the head of the funeral escort. As chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, Gen. Pershing regards himself as a mourner at the symbolic funeral and will walk the five miles, taking his place just after President Harding and the Cabinet members, but continuing on foot with the column after the President and Senators and Representatives and Supreme Court members and others of the official group of mourners turn aside at the White House.

The body of the unknown soldier will reach home shores shortly after 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.
Announcement was made today that King Ferdinand of Rumania had awarded the highest military decoration of his nation, known as the Rumanian virtutea militare, to the unknown soldier.

DEVICE TO RECORD SOUND OF HUMAN BREATH OR HEART BEAT Government Announces Perfection of Process for Impression on and Reproduction From Wire.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Perfection of a device which will record the sound of a human breath or a heart beat on a steel wire, from which they can be accurately reproduced at any time, is announced by the Bureau of Standards.
The work was undertaken at the request of the Army Medical Service, which explained that permanent records of unusual conditions of heart and lungs were desired for clinic instruction.
The device comprises the use of an ordinary telephone transmitter and a stethoscope. It is explained, the current generated by the beat of the heart being "amplified and connected with a steel wire telegraph, which has the different sounds impressed upon its spool of wire in the form of varying degrees of magnetization."

"THE CITY OF WASHINGTON" CAPITAL'S OFFICIAL DESIGNATION
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The administration, after a period of uncertainty, has settled upon "The City of Washington" as the official legal designation of the capital.
President Harding in an executive order issued today directed that these words be used in every legal instrument executed here requiring ceto, proclamations and similar legal instruments have made reference variously to "The District of Columbia," "The City of Washington," or simply "Washington," while President Harding's Thanksgiving proclamation, recently issued, was "Done in the Capital of the United States."

Raspberries Ripe in Garden.
Recent warm weather started growth of many forms of vegetation on the East Side. William H. West of Edwardsville, foreman of one of the factories of the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co., went into his garden yesterday and found enough ripe red raspberries for dessert for the family luncheon.

One Woman Was Paying 42c per can for fancy peas, and comparing them with the kind her neighbor had bought at her neighborhood Kroger store for 25c, she could not believe it possible that Kroger could sell a can of peas for 25c that would equal any 42c variety, so she made a trial purchase of one can of Country Club Rye Sifted Wisconsin Peas. She was delighted to find them the equal of the kind she had bought at 42c a can. Why not try a can yourself? No. 2 cans for 25c.

REVOLVERS FOUND IN RAID AT HOME OF JAMES HOGAN

Under a Pillow Detectives
Find 3 Loaded Weapons,
50 Extra Cartridges and Coil of Rope.

7 MEN IN BEDROOM
TAKEN IN CUSTODY

Occupant of House Is Under Charge of Robbing
Bank Messenger, Who Later
Was Murdered.

Detectives who raided the home of James Hogan, at 2829A Madison street, at 1 p. m. today, and arrested Hogan and six other men, found under a pillow, in the bedroom where the men were sitting, three loaded revolvers, more than 50 extra rounds of ammunition, and a coil of window sash rope.

Hogan is to be tried at Union, Mo., within two weeks, on the charge of robbing Ernie Pillow, negro bank messenger, who was later murdered, apparently to keep him from testifying in the case.

The detectives, with their own revolvers drawn, surprised the men who were sitting in the Hogan bedroom. The revolvers were taken to Police Headquarters, as no one of the arrested men would make any claim to them.

The purpose of the raid was accomplished in the re-arrest of Luke Kennedy, on request of the authorities of Centerville, Ia. A policeman was shot in Centerville Oct. 11, after he had stopped a Ford automobile in which three men were riding. The men escaped, leaving the car, and its motor number was traced to St. Louis, and led to the order for Kennedy's arrest. He was arrested last Saturday, and furnished $10,000 bond. A St. Louis police photograph of Kennedy was sent to Centerville, and a message received today asked that Kennedy be re-arrested.

The detectives learned that Kennedy, whose home is on Greer avenue, was at Hogan's. One detective remained in the rear yard at the Hogan place, while three went up the back stairs and into the kitchen door, which is the only entrance. They found Hogan, Kennedy and four others, apparently waiting for Mrs. Hogan, in the kitchen, to get their lunch ready.

FARRINGTON ASSAILS LEWIS

Says Such Acts as Suspension of Hawaii Threaten Union.

By the Associated Press.
PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 3.—Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois United Mine Workers, came to the defense today of Alexander Howat, deposed head of the Kansas district miners, by declaring in his annual report to the Illinois miners' convention here that such acts as Howat's unseating would cause the union to be "overcome and perish of internal dissension."

Farrington declared John L. Lewis, international president, had no authority to suspend the Kansas officers on Oct. 12, and declared if President Lewis was to be allowed to so act, "the integrity of any district will not be safe against the inconsistency and passion of his rule."

The fire started at the left front upper corner of the fifth floor in the clothes room. Students going to supper smelled the smoke, found the fire and attempted to extinguish it with fire hose. MRS. BERGDOLL SENDS BILL FOR $10,000 TO GOVERNMENT

Mother of Draft Evader Wants Pay as "Caretaker" of Her Son's Property.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Mrs. E. C. Bergdoll, who has been ordered to vacate "Bergdoll Castle," which the Government maintains is owned by her son, Grover C. Bergdoll, draft evader and fugitive from justice, has sent the Government a bill at the rate of $10,000 a year for her services as caretaker of the dwelling.

Col. Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian, said that when Mrs. Bergdoll had been directed to vacate on Oct. 31, it was because she had maintained it was an effort for her to administer the property. She admitted the property belong to Grover, Col. Miller said, and made a charge of $10,000 a year for administering it.

"My agents in Philadelphia informed me that Mrs. Bergdoll did not vacate on Oct. 31, and that she claimed her reason for not doing so was on account of a certain illness she had contracted," he said.

"My information today is that she was seen yesterday in an automobile and now we are informed that she is not ill at all, but that her aged mother, who was doing the family laundry in the cellar of the Wynne-field property last week, is the one who is ill."

The statement asserts that Mrs. Bergdoll's conduct is a "palpable effort to evade the law."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

That $2.50 Man.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We are all entitled to an opinion and no doubt Invest T. Gate is entitled to express his. The publicity given his opinion is, however, quite apt to prejudice the minds of the unthinking, and I would like to say a few words setting forth the other side of the story.

In the first place, he is, of course, to be pitied if he is either so unfortunate, or so ignorant, as not to have allied himself with a union, which is the only fortification the workingman has, and as a result of standing alone was unable, as an individual, to maintain his right, and was accordingly obliged to take a cut in his earnings. At any rate, different men meet different wages, and different work is differently rewarded. He failed to mention what work he did, but with all due respect for the man, it is quite possible that his services are worth no more than is given for them. At any rate, there is something wrong with the reasoning power of a man who figures that everyone else should get paid $2.50 a day because he himself is unable to earn more, and possibly his work falls far short of ordinary standards as his reasoning powers.

According to his theory, my wife ought to advocate a cut in Mary Garden's pay because she (my wife) has to manage on so much less (the results would be about equal in either case). He has our sympathy, of course, in being obliged to work for the paltry and insignificant sum mentioned, but knowing the hardship of it, it scarcely seems worthy of him to attempt to drag others to his own level. If he had the right feeling he would at least take the attitude of pulling the legs from under the fellow who is standing, but instead would try to boost himself to the higher level.

NOM DE PLUME.

Consider the Bees.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

On every side you hear workers complain about the ills of the time—unemployment, reduced wages, high prices, the aversion of the "well-to-do" and so on. One might find sympathy with the plight of the individual, but never with the working men and women as a class, because as such they constitute the majority in any country or community and consequently possess the lawful power to make their will supreme whenever they develop sufficient gray matter to co-operate. In this respect the bees or ants are their superiors.

Invitation to Taxpayer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If the writer who signs himself "Taxpayer" and objects to the bonus would but come to the office of the War Veterans' Employment Bureau at Room 500 Chamber of Commerce Building and observe the hundreds of idle ex-service men who are anxious to work, and who are entirely without funds or support, Taxpayer would change his mind entirely. The misinformed Taxpayer remarks that $120 would not compensate anyone for going to war, and therefore it would not be of use to pay that amount. The U. S. Government and the American Red Cross take care of the disabled veterans, but they do not take care of boys who are able to, but cannot get work to support themselves or their families.

We trust Mr. Taxpayer will call at our bureau between 11 and 1 o'clock.

WORLD WAR VETERANS' RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

H. COLE, President.

Street Car Service.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

REPLYING to a letter signed J. K. Hoffman, I have ridden cars in nearly every large city in the United States, and regret to say that the service of the U. S. is the poorest of all except Kansas City and towns of smaller population.

As for other cities charging more fare, Chicago is the only town east of Denver that charges over 7c fare. In Cleveland the fare is 5c, Detroit 6c, Buffalo 7c. All towns east of here of 200,000 population or better, run cars all night. In Chicago on all lines of any importance you can get a car every 30 minutes; in Cleveland and Detroit, every 40 minutes.

I am a resident of St. Louis and am sorry to say that the U. S. is a drawback to the city.

M. H. BUCHANAN.

The Bonus.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It seems that one of our taxpayers begrudges a small bonus to the soldier and characterizes same as an insignificant sum of about $120 each which would be spent by most of them in less than two weeks.

If all the needy ex-service men had this sum right now, to what more worthy cause could this be applied? It is true $120 will not compensate those who went through the unspeakable tragedies of war.

It is true the average soldier of that great army did not get the chance to share in war-time prosperity, but we sincerely trust that our Governor will not allow the "tightwad taxpayer" to prevent him from putting over the bonus which is sanctioned by 100 per cent Americans who gave their overwhelming vote in its favor in the November election.

AN EX-SERVICE MAN.

PROSPERITY OR RUIN.

Stating that there is no conflict between the League of Nations, to which France is bound, and the armaments conference, Premier Briand declares that France is ready to join with other nations in the limitation of armaments, provided that France is given security.

Practically, that is the attitude of Japan, where the demand for disarmament is strong among the people. Japan asks that her legitimate interests be protected and that she be safeguarded against attack. The question of legitimate interests will be involved in the settlement of Pacific and Far Eastern problems. The satisfactory adjustment of these questions will be a long step towards world peace and a firm foundation for limitation of naval armaments.

It is an impressive fact that the heads and representatives of every nation in the conference express unreserved desire to eliminate armament competition and to reduce armaments. All recognize publicly the necessity of relieving the peoples of the crushing cost burden of armaments and of their war menace.

There is a difference, of course, between a general desire for disarmament and a specific agreement in which all can join. The question is complicated, but it is encouraging that all the delegates and the governmental heads recognize the necessity of economic relief and the disaster that will be involved in a failure of the conference to accomplish substantial results that will make for real arms reduction and a sound basis of friendship and co-operation in the interest of peace.

So far as public opinion goes the evidence of an overwhelming weight of sentiment for arms reduction and for peace is undoubted. The evidence is strong from every nation participating in the conference. The weight of world opinion is on the side of progressive disarmament. It is recognized universally as a necessity for the salvation of mankind from distress and unmeasured calamity and from the horror and ruin of new wars.

The disarmament section of the Sunday Post-Dispatch contained convincing proof of the tremendous popular demand in this country for limitation of arms and the United States practically holds the key to the solution of the problem. We are the acknowledged leaders in the conference and our attitude and initiative will go far towards determining the attitude and action of other nations. As the one nation standing apart from the covenant of peace and engaged in building the strongest navy in the world, other nations look to us for leadership in the path of disarmament and peace.

In the collection of evidence submitted by the Post-Dispatch are the opinions of Governors of all the states; the hearty concurrence of presidents of all the universities and colleges of the land; the conference at Princeton of representatives of 40 colleges adopted a strong resolution asking our Government to press for a solution of issues and a substantial reduction of armaments for the relief of the peoples and the releasing of energies and money for the benefit of mankind. The National League of Women Voters adopted a strong resolution in favor of disarmament and peace methods in settling international differences; the women's organizations are active all over the land in rallying the people to the cause of peace and disarmament. Business organizations and business men are demanding action for economic relief. They regard the success of the conference as a necessary condition to the revival of industry and trade and the restoration of prosperous activities.

The attitude of business is stated fully by Robert Newton Lynch, vice president and manager of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, which originated the business movement for limitation of arms with a stirring call, "American business men," said M. Lynch, "have the largest possible stake in the conference for the limitation of arms. Its success is essential to the revival of prosperity, while its failure would be the greatest conceivable calamity in world affairs."

The nations are reduced almost to chaos and even this country, with its unbounded resources, is suffering grievously not only in its foreign markets, but in all of its domestic trade.

The moral argument is equally complete and some other method besides war must be found to adjust and settle international disputes. Public opinion in the United States will decide the question, because we are the great creditor nation and hold the whip hand.

The symposium of opinion from leading English statesmen and publicists is unequivocally for reduced arms and peaceful methods as essential to the safety of civilization.

Representative men of all the nations are in accord as to the necessity of disarmament and the adoption of the processes of reason and law for the settlement of international questions.

There is no question of the necessity of reduced armaments; there is no question of the moral obligations of nations to resort to law and reason for the arbitration of their differences and to abandon brutal trial by battle, which is the instrument of greedy might, not of right; there is no question of the crushing burden and terrible menace of heavy armaments; there is no question of the overwhelming weight of world opinion for disarmament and peace; there ought to be no question of the success of the disarmament conference. The people must force success.

EXPLOITING THE BONUS.

The late squabble in the Senate over the bonus plan which it was proposed to attach to the tax bill is indicative of the purely partisan nature of the controversy and of the complete lack of any interest in the cause except as it affects the political fortunes of individuals and parties.

The posing of Senators as friends of the down-trodden soldier against the sinister will of Wall Street has fallen to the plane of crude political tricks. Who could believe, for instance, that Senator Stanley of Kentucky really meant what he said last Saturday when he charged that "the silent, insidious and pitiless Mammon of Wall Street" had caused the President to "turn his back" on the 4,000,000 ex-service men?

President Harding may be capable of transcendent heights of statesmanship which would move him to sacrifice his political fortunes for a cause. But we are not yet ready to credit him with any such courage as it would require really to "turn his back" on the 4,000,000 ex-service men. Far more plausible is the theory that a few Senators of the minority find it to their interest to exploit the well-known political potency of the bonus issue to embarrass the party which is at present responsible for the financial and economic results of the policy of the Government.

Such is bound to be the character of any fight in Congress on an issue of direct financial interest to a large class of voters. The party in power faces responsibility for any evil consequences which a yielding to the immediate political expediencies may entail. The party out of power, free of responsibility, sets out to win what votes it can by capitalizing the grievance of disappointed voters.

Certainly the attitude of the bonus champions in the Senate is anything but a compliment to the ex-soldier. Baldly insincere in their professions of exclusive friendship for the ex-service men, the bonus champions assume that the favor of the men is secure by cheap agitation in behalf of a bestowal of money, whatever may be the consequences to the welfare of the nation.

796 EMPTY DWELLINGS.

"Take or leave" has been the haughty decree handed down to helpless renters since the beginning of the stringency in rentable dwellings. A police housing survey shows that there are 796 dwellings or possible dwellings in the city without tenants and that in the leading apartment house district the landlord has issued his doom of extinction in just 216 too many instances. The renters, either through resourcefulness or necessity, have exercised the option which the landlords assumed did not exist and have handed their supposed masters the cold consolation of empty apartments, with the incidental items of taxes, insurance, janitor service, interest and depreciation to be deducted from the profits extracted of others who had to stay and pay.

"Supply and demand" has been the golden text of the rent profiteer. Now let him have it, and let us observe whether he is as enthusiastic about it when demand tends to disappear as he was when supply was out of sight. The wages of too much extortion is loss, and this is as true of one class in the housing business as of another. The building material monopoly also has overhauled the trough, and arbitrary labor has reaped idleness and loss from its demands. "Take or leave" is a business attitude which is likely to outgrow its seasonableness.

CREATING THE BABIES.

The maternity bill pending in Congress was earnestly championed in a communication to the Letters From the People Thursday by a correspondent whose sincerity may not be questioned. Nor may the objects which this bill is designed to accomplish be questioned. Everybody believes in the child's right to be well born and that includes for the mother exemption from financial worries and the necessity of exhausting work for a definite period.

Could not such service, though, be better rendered by the community?

Are we no longer capable of local self-government? Have we become so helpless that we can do nothing unless directed by a Washington bureau? If we are not already reached that pitiable condition we are in the way of doing so. It is a lamentable, shirking state of mind. We are not only evading duties which we are most fitted to perform, but we are surrendering our fundamental rights—our political birthrights.

The enthusiasm for this Washington maternity bureau is typical of our times, but it is a misguided enthusiasm. We have already gone too far in this direction. Local self-government is disappearing under the corrosive, destructive plausibility of centralization. Bureaucracy is superseding democracy.

ALMOST TO NORMALCY.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
By Clark McAdams

It is expected in Washington, that the disarmament conference will last three months. That ought to be time enough for everybody to show his hand, and you may be sure that we shall be surprised by some of the factors bearing upon the situation. Nothing better reflects our social incapacity than the fact that we go about armed to the teeth. If reason and fairness ranked very high among our characteristics we would no more know what an armed nation is than we know what a feudal baron is. We are not going to leap to high ground without many halts and take-offs. Let us say, then, that the first month of the conference will probably be given to maneuvering for military and naval advantage; the second month to trade diplomacy, or how to get in while keeping the other fellow out; and the third month to disarmament. Disarmament will be doing nicely if it gets the floor by that time.

HOMEMADE LIQUORS VS. SOFT DRINKS.

(From the "Still-at-Home.")

We think the criticism just a bit flimsy that finds fault with the scenic setting and dairy-like operating conditions of the typical commercial still "turned up" in a big city or on an outlying farm. It seems to be overlooked that, while art is long, unlicensed stills are just naturally not. There isn't the same incentive to beautify their surroundings that puts the artistic homemaker into action. Everything in outlook and background has to be sacrificed to the strictly utilitarian—landscape to man-made, so to speak.

Nor is it possible, in the same circumstances, to win a blue ribbon and a 100 per cent rating for sanitary methods of production. But even so, why so much squeamishness? Distilled liquor isn't like contaminated milk or water, a disease-giver. Quite the other way, it is destructive to all known germs save the one that induces prohibition. Back in the hills where there is plenty of room out of doors, crystal spring water, good corn, and an art that has been handed down from father to son through successive generations, the product is as clean as a rain-washed sky and mellow with age like fruit for the plucking. It is only the foreign tyro who has been in this country just long enough to shed the rings from his ears that makes a disgusting mess of his mash. The public should not be misled as to the facts; great allowance should be made for the aims of prohibition propaganda.

However, the Still-at-Home does not, and never did relish being put on the defensive and having to explain or apologize for the industry of which it is the spokesman. We are like the General who, when he didn't know what to do next in a battle, always ordered a charge. Which brings us to the point of asking about the sanitary conditions under which soft drinks are produced, and as to the purity and healthfulness of their ingredients.

There has been a tremendous expansion of this business, in expectation that prohibition would force the drinkers of intoxicating liquors to turn to nonintoxicating preparations. Anybody who has a loose nickel could get into it. What has happened, in the circumstances, may be inferred when it is stated that there are now 14,000 bottlers accounted for in the records of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, to say nothing of the swarming thousands of unaccounted "little fellows." A little sweetened water and somebody's flavor—and there you have a drink with a melliferous name.

The only merit of a good deal of this stuff is that it is harmless, if avoided. There are, of course, many excellent products in the list of the more widely known beverages, and there can be, conceivably, many additional ones of like good quality produced; but taking them as a whole, they are probably a greater menace to the human stomach than even the homemade alcoholic liquors—a much greater one.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

THE TAX BURDEN.

DAVID F. HOUSTON in World's Work.

WITH the changes in particular taxes, should be coupled several administrative amendments, the most important of which is one giving the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the consent of the taxpayer and the approval of the Secretary, power to make a final settlement of tax claims, which shall not be reopened except for fraud or misrepresentation of material facts. At present, a great menace of uncertainty hangs over the business man. He never knows when he is through with his payments for a given period. Every time a ruling is changed by a court or by the Attorney-General or by the department, the new ruling becomes effective as to past happenings. The situation is particularly serious in respect to the delayed audits of numerous corporations and a large amount of back taxes. It is in the interests both of the Government and of the taxpayer to get through with such business, even if one or the other occasionally sustains some loss. The things the nation needs, therefore, in this field, are rigid economy, largely through disarmament, without which the tax burden cannot be reduced; very prompt action by Congress; revision and simplification of taxes; and a system based on sound and just principles, which in the main will command the continuing support of thoughtful business and other leaders and which, with modifications to suit changing needs, will tend to become permanent. The new world wants to be relieved of the menace of frequent change and threats of change, made largely for political effect, almost as much as it desires reduction of its specific burdens.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

From the Philadelphia Record.

BESIDES giving its decision on the division of Silesia last week, the League of Nations was also successful in securing an agreement among the 10 Powers most interested for the neutralization of the Aland Islands. These islands, lying between Sweden and Finland, and long an object of dispute because of the strategic importance of their location, were recently awarded to Finland, and the league has followed this up by securing a pledge as to their naval and military neutrality from Germany, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Great Britain, Italy, Lithuania, Poland and Sweden. Probably when Russia seems a more representative government it will also be asked to sign the agreement. Thus the league is steadily fulfilling the function for which it was established—the preservation of the peace of the world.

OUR SOLDIERS ON THE RHINE.

From the New York Sun.

WITHDRAWAL of most of the American troops on the Rhine is a necessity that helps no cheer to those directly involved. The soldiers themselves have immensely enjoyed their sojourn in the beautiful country about Coblenz, with just that when translated into marks means optimism. The Germans, though the occupation costs them heavily, desire the Americans and would prefer that they stay. The French and British in this case agree with the Germans. But, as the President is reported to have pointed out, the financial burden of supporting 14,000 American troops is a severe one and should be prolonged no longer than necessary. Europe is maintaining armies that constitute a terrific drain on the public purse, and is seeking ways to reduce them with no sacrifice to the national welfare. The United States, in bringing home its army of occupation, hopes that the time will soon come for cutting this huge economic load.

500 U. S. DELEGATES
HERE FOR CONVENTION

Preliminary Meetings Being Held
—Formal Sessions Will Be Opened Tonight.

Meetings preliminary to the opening of the twenty-eighth annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy here are being held today. There was a luncheon at Hotel Statler at noon, complimentary to the 500 delegates, who represent 23 states, by business men of St. Louis. The convention, which will continue the remainder of the week, will be formally opened at a dinner at Hotel Statler tonight.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy has chapters in 36 states. Besides the 25 which are represented here there is a proxy present for the chapter in Paris, France, which was established by American women residing there a year ago. The U. D. C. was organized in 1892. Its eleventh annual convention was held in St. Louis in 1904.

An unusual feature of the convention will be the presence of nearly 100 young women pages, some of those selected being St. Louis girls. The officers of the State president phrased it. "They will be here to help the delegates and to adorn the meeting hall."

Murray Carleton presided at the luncheon today. The Executive Board met yesterday and today to handle administrative routine. Mrs. Roy W. McKinney of Paducah, Ky., president-general of the U. D. C., presided.

Mrs. J. P. Higgins to Preside.
Mrs. J. P. Higgins, president of the Missouri division and chairman of the convention committee, will preside at tonight's meeting. Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle will pronounce the invocation. Former Ambassador Francis will deliver the address of welcome. The officers of local chapters will make addresses and following the presentation of Mrs. McKinney, the delegates will stand at attention while the "Star-Spangled Banner" and "Dixie" are played. Afterwards there will be an informal reception.

Ernest R. Kroeger and L. E. Walker are to play a piano duet, "An Historical Overture in Commemoration of the Admission of Missouri into the Union," which Kroeger composed. The officers of the U. D. C. will enter the meeting in a procession, each one wearing a long band of red and white ribbon around the neck. The hotel ballroom has been decorated with numerous small flags of the Confederacy, the Stars and Bars, one large American flag, and portraits of Confederate heroes.

Ritual to Be Repeated.
The ritual of the organization, which includes responsive readings, prayers and hymns, will be repeated at the opening of the business sessions tomorrow. The ritual opens with a speech for the president-general: "Daughters of the Confederacy, this day we are gathered together, in the sight of God, to strengthen the bonds of the great Union, to renew the vows of loyalty to our sacred principles; to do homage unto the memory of our gallant Confederate soldiers, and to perpetuate the fame of their noble deeds unto the third and fourth generations. To this end we invoke the aid of our Lord."

$50,000 Heroes' Fund.
It is expected that announcement will be made of the completion of the $50,000 1917-18 Heroes' Education Endowment Fund, raised by a per capita tax on local chapters, which is to provide for the education of world war veterans who are descendants of Confederate veterans, by loan without interest.

A report on the progress of the section of the memorial to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy, at his birthplace, Fairview, Ky., will be made, and plans will probably be completed for building the proposed "Treasure House," at Richmond, Va., for the preservation of records of the U. D. C.

Gen. Julian S. Carr, commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans; Gen. W. C. Bronough, State commander; and Col. E. C. Robbins, commander of the Camp No. 1, 731, and officers of the Sons of Confederate Veterans are expected at the convention as guests of honor.

GERTRUDE HOFFMAN, DANCER,
FEATURES BILL AT ORPHEUM

With Humor Subordinated to Ballet Numbers on Program

This Week.
With and humor are subordinated to the dance on this week's Orpheum program, the headliner being Gertrude Hoffman and her American ballet. Miss Hoffman dances with less abandon than in former seasons, and in three or four appearances she is fully clothed. Her dances are all duets with number, a Spanish fantasy, a Strasse Waltz and Polish mazurka. The other 12 numbers are left to the members of her company, which includes several youthful dancers, some of whom show great promise. The costuming, or lack of it, is not more daring than in several of the current musical comedies and reviews.

On the bill also are the Cameron sisters, among the best of the vaudeville toe dancers, and Bill Robinson, a negro comedian, whose clogging is a revelation.

Adolphe Marconi and an unidentified assistant use rapid-fire dialogue as a prelude to the violin and accordion duet. William Gaston and his company have a rather menial sketch which turns on the ability of the hero and his friends to keep the McGraw and Deeds have a nonsense act and the Gardinetti brothers are skillful hat throwers.

500 U. D. C. DELEGATES HERE FOR CONVENTION

Preliminary Meetings Being Held
—Formal Sessions Will Be Opened Tonight.

Meetings preliminary to the opening of the twenty-eighth annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy here are being held today. There was a luncheon at Hotel Statler at noon, complimentary to the 500 delegates, who represent 28 states, by business men of St. Louis. The convention, which will continue the remainder of the week, will be formally opened at a dinner at Hotel Statler tonight.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy has chapters in 36 states. Besides the 28 which are represented here there is a proxy present for the chapter in Paris, France, which was established by American women residing there a year ago. The U. D. C. was organized in 1893. Its eleventh annual convention was held in St. Louis in 1914.

An unusual feature of the convention will be the presence of nearly 100 young women pages, some of those selected being St. Louis girls. In one former State president phrased it, "They will be here to help the delegates and to adorn the meeting hall."

Murray Carleton presided at the luncheon today. The Executive Board met yesterday and today to handle administrative routine. Mrs. Roy W. McKinney of Paducah, Ky., president-general of the U. D. C., presided.

Mrs. J. P. Higgins, president of the Missouri division and chairman of the convention committee, will preside at tonight's meeting. Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle will pronounce the invocation. To this end we invoke the aid of our Lord."

It is expected that announcement will be made of the completion of the $10,000 1917-18 Heroes' Educational Endowment Fund, raised by a per capita tax on local chapters. It is to provide for the education of world war veterans who are descendants of Confederate veterans, by loans without interest.

OLD ALPHABET IS DISCOVERED IN RUINS OF ANCIENT THEBES

Tradition Holds That Cadmus First Brought Art of Letters to the City.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
ATHENS, Oct. 18.—Dr. Keramopoulos, one of the Greek inspectors of antiquities, has made some discoveries in the ruins of the palace at Thebes. According to legend, this palace was founded by Cadmus, who is said to have first brought the alphabet to Greece.

In previous campaigns, the remains of the fresco decoration of the earlier palace, 1600 to 1400 B. C. were brought to light. This consisted largely of a frieze of elaborately dressed and coiffured women carrying flowers, painted jugs, or ivory boxes.

This year the excavator has found some of the store rooms of the later palace, 1400 to 1100 B. C. From these there have been extracted a hundred or more big jars. They are unfortunately broken but they contain a great mass of papyrus.

A considerable number of these jars have painted on them inscriptions in the still undecipherable Mycenaean alphabet. The letters or rather signs are of a hieroglyphic character and are derived but differ from the well-known and equally undecipherable Cretan prehistoric alphabet. Scientists believe it possible that the difference of alphabet means a difference of language.

However, much professors may dispute about the meaning and character of these alphabets. Athens archaeological circles attach special interest to the fact that ancient tradition has once more been proved right by the discovery of what might be called Cadmean letters in the ruins of Cadmus' city.

AMERICAN PERMITTED TO VISIT KRONSTADT

Battleships Idle and Small Steamers 'Unloading' Grain and Flour.

By the Associated Press.
KRONSTADT, Russia, Nov. 8.—For the first time since the revolt of last March, which for nine days imperiled the soviet power, an American correspondent yesterday was permitted to visit Russia's Baltic fleet base and the island fortress which form Russia's chief defense.

Only one small boat plies daily the 270 miles between Petrograd and Kronstadt and passengers must have permits from Col. B. Pouetam Bek, formerly of the old Russian army, but more recently with the commission of Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, in New York. Col. Bek accompanied the correspondent on the trip, which starts from the main channel of the Neva and leads along the deserted coasts, which are lined with warships, the guns of which are covered by wooden shacks, and rusting merchant vessels. Only a few tugs, towing wood barges, and tiny harbor craft, one of which bore the name "Clara Zetkin," the communist agitator, were moving.

To Keep Harbor Open.
Smoke was coming out of the stacks of the gigantic ice breaker Volkoff, with which the soviet authorities have promised the American relief administration to keep Petrograd harbor open until Dec. 10, or possibly all during the winter. The ice breaker is a great mass of steel girders, resembling the superstructure of a railway bridge, which rises above sharp steel runners, like those of a sledge, which are capable of cutting or crushing by sheer weight thick winter ice.

Where the Neva widens into Neva Bay, the American relief administration warehouses are visible for several miles to the southward along the shipping canal. Here a dozen small Russian, Swedish and German steamships today were unloading grain, flour and farm machinery.

It was Kronstadt where the first Russian republic was created. Sailors and mutineers established their own government in Kronstadt. It never acknowledged that Alexander Kerensky had any authority over it, consequently it became the nucleus about which the soviet power grew, and the insurrection last March came dangerously near upsetting the Bolshevik regime, in which sailors played such a prominent part.

The correspondent of the Associated Press was shown over the city of Kronstadt by a crowd of communist sailors who participated in the Red army defeat. They pointed with pride to the undamaged churches as proof of the accuracy of the Bolshevik gunners in the land forces, which shelled the mutinous batteries all about the main island. These sailors said the British sea-planes, which bombed Kronstadt, when the British navy assisted Gen. Yudenitch in his movement against Petrograd, did more damage to the city than was done in the March insurrection.

Battleships Lying Idle.
The battleships Sevastopol and Petropavlovsk are still lying in the naval harbor without steam. Many destroyers move in and out, engaged in coast patrol in the Finnish Gulf. The wreck of a Russian transport boat, which the British navy sank at the time of the Yudenitch attack, still lies half submerged in the naval harbor.

Free trade has not been re-established here. The sailors said they regarded it as undesirable to admit merchants or other foreigners. Consequently, the Government would continue its liberal rationing system, but would permit cafes to remain open.

The correspondent was entertained by the sailors at their club, which was formerly used as club rooms by

Protect Yourself From Contagion

EVERY time you breathe you inhale thousands of infectious germs, and these immediately find a resting place in the soft tissues of your throat.

Keep a convenient bottle of Formamint Tablets in your pocket, dissolve one slowly in your mouth every time you are in a place where disease germs are prevalent—in street car, theatre, railroad train, store or on dusty street.

A pleasant tasting but powerful antiseptic is released, and, mixing with the saliva, will quickly spread to every part of the mouth and throat, checking the germ life and preventing throat infection; possibly laryngitis, tonsillitis, "flu," Relieves hoarseness.

Helpful for singers, actors, smokers, speakers, lecturers, etc. Children like them. 60¢ at all druggists.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward av., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tireless exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.

WESTERN RAILWAYS MOVE FOR WAGE CUT

Notices for 10 Per Cent Reduction to Go Before Labor Board at Once.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Managers of the Western group of railroads met here yesterday and decided upon the immediate posting of notices of wage reductions of 10 per cent, according to an announcement today.

The roads represented at the meeting included the Santa Fe, Great Western, Rock Island, Northwestern, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Great Northern.

In the proposed cuts all departments would be affected. Committees were appointed to draft the notices immediately, so that the roads may go before the Labor Board and ask that the reductions be ruled upon as quickly as possible.

Following this announcement, the National Industrial Traffic League prepared for meetings tomorrow and Wednesday to ask that the railroads press their claims for wage reductions on the basis of rate reductions to shippers. The league represents many of the important shippers of the country.

Resolutions for presentation to roads have already been drawn, and include three salient points:

That railroad wages scales be put on a level corresponding with those of other industries.

That wage reductions and rate reductions take place simultaneously. Abrogation immediately of national agreements, made effective during the period of Federal control.

The Railroad Labor Board has announced that wage arbitration will not be considered until after the board has passed on working rules and schedules by the roads decided to press their wage reduction efforts, so that these might be brought to the attention of the board immediately, it was said.

SALOON KEEPER ROBBED OF $50

James Roach, saloon keeper at 4400 Manchester avenue, was preparing to close his place at 12:10 a. m. today when a man walked in and asked for a package of cigarettes.

Before Roach could serve him a second man armed with a revolver and wearing a mask walked in and ordered Roach to throw up his hands. Roach made a leap for a stairway and ran to his living apartments. He was calling Police Headquarters by telephone when he reported he heard the two downstairs remark, "We'd better get out of here before the police arrive." Roach reported seeing a large touring car drive away from in front of the place. He said the men took $50 from the cash register.

14 PICTURE THEATERS MERGED; SOME TO CLOSE

Skouras and Koplar Interests Combine Management of Neighborhood Enterprises.

A merger of neighborhood theaters controlled by the Skouras Bros. enterprises and the Koplar interests, was effected last night. Into this combination, which will be known as the St. Louis Amusement Co., the Skouras brothers put the Pageant, Shaw and Arsenal theaters and the Koplar put the Grand-Florissant, Lindell, Shenandoah, Ju-nia, Arco, Manchester, Lafayette, Gravois, Loew, Maffitt and Novette theaters.

The deal did not affect the New Grand Central, West End Lyric and Capitol, owned by Skouras Bros., or the Pershing, Royal, Montgomery and Webster, owned by the Koplar interests.

Officers of the new corporation are Spyros P. Skouras, president; Harry Koplar, vice president; W. A. Stickney, secretary; Sam Hamburg Jr., treasurer; and Charles P. Skouras, manager.

Spyros Skouras today said the new company would close some of the theaters included in the combination, but a selection of the ones to be closed has not been made. Bookings for all of the merged theaters will be handled through a central office.

INGROWN NAILS

Toe Nail Turns Out Itself if you Toughen the Skin

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight. "Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

Kabakoff's Class Will Be Settled In Bout Tonight

Ghetto Champion Faces Artie Root, Who Has Fought All the Featherweight Leaders.

Tonight's Coliseum Card
Harry Kabakoff, St. Louis, vs. Artie Root, Cleveland; 15 rounds, 115 pounds.
Johnny Kern, St. Louis, vs. Kayo Krause, Cleveland; 8 rounds, 150 pounds.
Leo Julius vs. Steve English, both St. Louis; 6 rounds, 130 pounds.
Morris King vs. Jimmy McAtee, both St. Louis; 4 rounds, 110 pounds.
Harry Sharpe, referee.

By John E. Wray.

Harry Kabakoff, whose ring history for five years has by turns given his admirers hot flashes and cold feet, will step up a notch tonight when he faces Artie Root of Cleveland, a nifty little sparrer of 127 pounds, whose record indicates that he can travel in the best of company without being disgraced.

When a fighter steps 10 rounds with Johnny Kilbane and concedes the featherweight championship rights against 122 pounds ringside, there must be something more than conversation to his record. Root worked out at a local gymnasium yesterday, but did little to show onlookers that Kabakoff would need all his arts tonight. The gym was stifling and Root, already at weight, merely loafed through practice. However, no bomb-proof will be needed for Kabby to retire into, as the records indicate Root carries only light-caliber artillery, of the quick-fire type.

Root is about 24 years old, and his record goes back to 1915, which gives him the advantage over Kabakoff in both years and experience. Kabby admits 21 and may be a year older.

In all Root's career no year was so eventful as that of 1920, in which opportunity and disaster caught up with him several times. He opened auspiciously by outboxing that clever and dangerous featherweight, Andy Chaney—a fighter who flattened Kabakoff in a single round. It was his second victory over this blond titanic and it seems proof that Root is a top-rank boxer. Then he faced Danny Frush, a title candidate, who later fought Kilbane. Frush won a point decision over Root in six rounds. Root followed up this by knocking out Joe Pick—the fourth and last knockout in his entire record—to the present time.

Root twice counted out.

Then came Danny Frush again, and this time Root gained the decision. After this, disaster began to follow fast on the heels of Root's effort to achieve greatness. He met a good boy, Johnny Murray, and lost in five rounds. Root was counted out by the referee, but Root's camp explains the situation by saying that Artie was fouled, and that the referee did not allow it. This happens sometimes, though rarely, in ring circles.

The defeat did not appear to injure Root's standing, for he was next matched with Johnny Kilbane for the championship—and again Root was beaten, in a round. The full explanation of Root's train accounts for this defeat, too, although Kabakoff's record and his haypunch are ample explanation. Root it appears, was compelled to put up $1000 forfeit to make 122 pounds ringside for Kilbane, while the champion came in at catch weights—which may have been above 120 pounds. It was a big handicap to give a world's champion, if the statement is true.

But Root's subsequent record indicates that he may have been out of form or was "tipping." The best he could do with the British fighter, Tommy Noble, was a draw; while his next bout saw him knocked out by Danny Frush.

Aim To Be the Healer.

Once more the faithful ally was pulled out of the box, this time to explain that Root had tonsillitis and was weak. "At that," Root's manager explains, "he almost knocked out Frush in the early rounds; and proved his superiority a few weeks later by out-punching Frush in another bout."

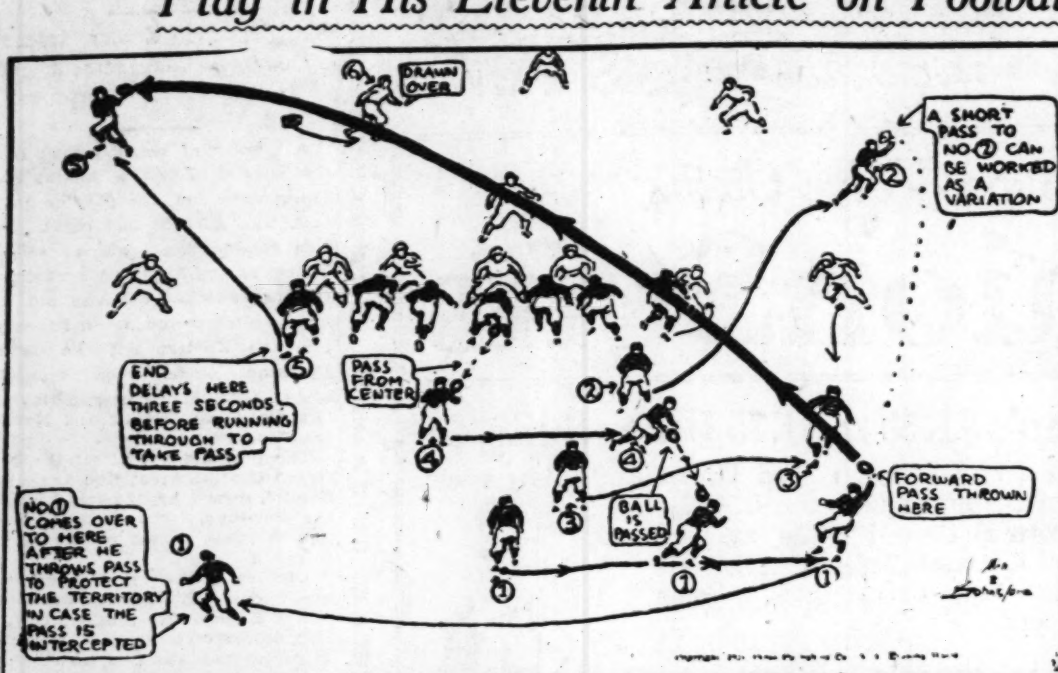

It was a bad year for Root, although all of his bad luck was against opponents of title class. His very first contest of the present year saw Root defeated again. This time it was by Sammy Sieger, another featherweight title candidate. Alibi again rises to the occasion and says of this contest:

"Thirteen thousand fans boomed the decision of the New York judges and every paper in New York as well as the Illustrated Blade gave the verdict to Root."

Some record for defeats—and excuses. It must be admitted, however, that these defeats were all by men of championship flight. Subsequently Root won five fights, two against Tony Capone, the others against Bill Henry, Willie Green and Quincy Guiley.

Kabakoff has met two opponents that Root has faced—Benny Valger and Andy Chaney, both of whom have been, beginning Kilbane for a title fight in vain. For some time Root beat Chaney twice and lost to Valger on points. Kabakoff was knocked out by both men, but has since "come back" also a celebrated jockey.

Brickley Treats Double Pass, Forward Pass Play in His Eleventh Article on Football

By CHARLES BRICKLEY.
Harvard's Greatest Captain and All-American Back of 1912-13-14.
(Copyright, 1921.)

The above diagram illustrates a double pass, forward pass play from a punt formation.

In attempting this play it is advisable for the quarterback to run his team to the center of the field, that is, to have the play run off when the team is at an approximately equal distance from the two side lines. This is done for the reason that an effective variation of the play is possible should the thrower of the pass decide it is probable that the pass first intended is likely to be intercepted.

The success of the play the above diagram illustrates, if run to the right, depends in part on the left end (see figure 5) delaying about three seconds before making an attempt to charge his defensive tackle, in order not to let the defensive right halfback, numbered 6 in the diagram, know that a forward pass is intended. This is essential, as the play starts off as an end run from punt formation, with the back numbered 4 in the diagram carrying the ball, and the defensive back (see figure 4) will be prompted to run over and help the other defensive back.

As back number 4 runs over to the position where he is about to be tackled by the defensive left end and tackle he passes the ball back to figure 1, who in turn will make the forward pass to the end (see figure 5), who has dodged through the line. But, as previously stated, if the thrower of the pass sees that defensive back figured 6 in the diagram has not been drawn over by the threat of a punt, he will make the pass which was originally intended to make to the attacking end numbered 5 in the diagram is likely to be otherwise intercepted, the thrower of the ball can make a short pass to back numbered 2 in the diagram.

The passer should remember it is imperative to cover the side of the field he passes the ball into as a measure of protection in case the pass is intercepted.

In building an offensive system it is necessary to have formations that can be used to your plays without advertising to the opposing club where the plays are going. The play illustrated in the above diagram can be strengthened by having a check play to offset the double pass, forward pass play.

Have number 4 back receive the ball and run to the right, while the backs numbered 1 and 2 go through with the same assignment: as in the double pass, forward pass play. Back numbered 4 passes the ball to the back numbered 3, who goes through the defending right guard and tackle.

Blue Jays Agree To Play St. L. U. On Armistice Day

Wire to Post-Dispatch Says Westminster Consents to Advance Football Date.

In response to a telegram from the Post-Dispatch, authorities at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., told a Post-Dispatch representative that the college had consented to play St. Louis University's football eleven at St. Louis on Armistice day, Nov. 11, instead of a Saturday following, St. Louis University had not been advised of the concession early this afternoon.

The change was made at the request of St. Louis University authorities, who suggested by advancing the date to Friday a conflict with the Washington-Tulane game here would be avoided and a better attendance might be obtained.

The change will give the Billiken players a chance to view the Washington-Tulane game and get a good idea of the strength of the Washington eleven, in advance of the annual Thanksgiving day clash.

St. Louis boys will make up practically the entire backfield when they meet Westminster College Bluejays at the Billikens. In addition to these Coach H. I. Green of Westminster is trying to develop several more men.

Barker of St. Louis is the veteran of the backfield of the Bluejays, but has been under the weather and has not been able to do his best work. He is a hard trainer and a consistent player and when in form plays the game with the entire line-up intact. Nebraska showed a powerful rushing game, in which the forward pass played a very prominent part.

While I expected Notre Dame to press West Point, I thought there was a possibility of a very close game, and was astonished at the size of the score. This game is an annual feature at West Point, and the Army has had such a good opportunity to size up the Westerner's play that I was really astonished at the decisive defeat the soldier suffered.

Notre Dame used a shift that caused a great deal of discussion and which the Army claimed to be illegal. I am beginning to feel that some definite action must be taken on the question of shift plays. The Rules Committee has changed the phraseology of the rule so that a team must come to an appreciable stop before putting the ball into play. There is no doubt at all that most of the teams using the shift jump and start a fraction of a second ahead of the ball, the whole strength of the offensive team to outstart the defense. The more illegal the shift is, the more effective it becomes, and it does seem to me the Rules Committee will have to consider very carefully the whole man-in-motion situation.

Notre Dame uses a long forward pass with more success than any team in the country. The team works on the theory that a long pass is just as effective as a punt if intercepted by the opponents.

After the game had gone on for a while, the team making the pass is put in scoring position at once. Notre Dame combines a long forward passing game with a rushing attack very effectively. They wisely held the passes in reserve until after the first quarter, when they opened up with deadly effect.

Hold Passes in Reserve.

The Army forwards, in fact the whole team, had been drilled no doubt against the Notre Dame open plays. There was a strong possibility that the Westerners opened up at once that they might have been checked. But after the game had gone a little while they then took to forward passing and passed most effectively all the rest of the afternoon.

The game was played in a howling wind, and as both sides had two quarters with the wind and tide against it, the advantage and disadvantage was about equalized. Of course, West Point was handicapped by the absence of French. On paper the soldiers have a rugged, aggressive line and I am really astonished Nov. 22 they didn't gain more ground. West Point is pointing for the Navy, but I really think they are developing the team on almost too conservative lines, though no one can ever tell what Daley is holding in reserve.

Value of Team Development.

Football Shift Rule Still Unsatisfactory, Roper Says

Princeton Coach Asserts Committee Must Consider Carefully the Man-in-Motion Question—Notre Dame and Nebraska Furnished Surprises of Saturday.

By W. W. (Bill) Roper.
Head Coach, Princeton.

Outside of Princeton's magnificent rally against Harvard, the showing of two western teams in the east was the most impressive thing in last Saturday's games. I was really astonished at the University of Nebraska's wonderful showing against the powerful Pitt machine. Great credit is due to Fred Dawson, the Cornhuskers' magnetic coach.

Dawson played fullback on one of the first teams I coached at Princeton, and has been a close student of the game ever since. For several years he handled the Columbia team, and while he did not produce a winning combination, the last two years have clearly shown that it takes more than a coach to teach football at Columbia.

Nebraska, while a member of the Missouri Valley Conference, really outclasses the other teams in the conference. The Cornhuskers smothered Oklahoma, 44-0, the Saturday before the Pitt game, and came East primed to get the Panthers' scalp. I talked to Dawson last spring and I could tell from what he said that he was going to make the Pitt game his objective. Pitt started the game minus the services of Holleran at quarterback and McLean in the line. But even at that, I doubt if it could have won the game with the entire line-up intact. Nebraska showed a powerful rushing game, in which the forward pass played a very prominent part.

Army's Defeat a Surprise.

While I expected Notre Dame to press West Point, I thought there was a possibility of a very close game, and was astonished at the size of the score. This game is an annual feature at West Point, and the Army has had such a good opportunity to size up the Westerner's play that I was really astonished at the decisive defeat the soldier suffered.

Mayor Will Take Time in Naming New Boxing Body

Measure Authorizes Him to Select Five Men to Work With Safety Board Official.

Mayor Kiel today announced that he would take his time before naming the five commissioners who, with Herman Kralemann, chairman of the Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen are to constitute the body authorized under the new law, passed yesterday, to regulate boxing bouts in this city.

The Mayor stated that although the bill was passed as an emergency measure, in his opinion no emergency existed. He might take the full 90 days in considering his appointments, he said.

The Mayor this morning had assigned the bill, and said he would not, until he had an opinion from City Counselor Schnurmacher as to whether an "emergency" existed.

Report of possible conflict between the present unofficial committee that, under authority from the Police Board, has been regulating the boxing shows here, and the new board authorized by the passage of the measure yesterday, was not credited in city hall gossip.

While Mayor Kiel would not commit himself to any statement regarding his appointments, it was reported that he would probably name some of the members of the present Boxing Committee to the permanent board.

The members of the Boxing Committee as appointed by President Victor J. Miller of the Police Board are Max Orthwein, Lon Harris, Harry Kiener and Judge Robert Hall.

The new boxing law provides for a commission of five men to be appointed by the Mayor, working with the chairman of the Board of Public Safety—Herman Kralemann—as a sixth member.

The law contemplates the formation of clubs, boxes, promoters, referees and even seconds, and provides 5 per cent of the gross receipts of all shows go to the city.

The Police Board committee has been in charge of boxing for months, working under rules drawn by President Miller himself. The committee announced last night that it would continue to regulate the sport as long as they were not in conflict with the new law.

On the three Aldermen voted against the bill yesterday, Heckler, Buss and Uhlmeier. The last named member fought the passage of the bill from the beginning, intimating that it was designed to "flood the city hall with boxing passes." Uhlmeier himself is a boxing promoter operating the St. Louis Athletic Association. For some time he was matchmaker for the South Broadway Athletic Club, of which he is a member.

Shen Going East.

The Police Board Committee at its session last night, settled the case of Leo Shea, referee, by accepting Shea's resignation as an official. Shea in a letter to the board stated that he expected to return home shortly. He was also manager of the Forest Park Athletic Association, which promoted one boxing show here.

The committee also awarded four dates, as follows:

Nov. 16—Business Men's Athletic Association.
Nov. 23—Missouri Athletic Association.
Nov. 30—Business Men's Athletic Association.
Dec. 10—Veterans of the World War.

McMillen to Box Noye Here, Dec 10

St. Louisian to Meet St. Paul Lightweight in Feature of War Veterans' Benefit.

Johnny Noye of St. Paul, a rough and rugged boxer, and Joe McMillen of St. Louis will mingle at the First Regiment Armory, Dec. 10, at a benefit for world's war veterans whose families are in need of relief.

The date was granted the veterans last night at the instance of Matchmaker Roger Cornell, who is giving his services without charge. A souvenir program will give employment to veterans in "art" solicitors. Veterans will also act as ushers and the soft-drink and lunch privileges will also be operated by veterans. The proceeds of the show will be used for relief work among the needy veterans with families.

The fighters will all be paid for their services, and the show will be simply a business venture by the organization, with the profits going to the relief fund. There will be two 15-round contests, one 10-round, bout, one six-round affair and one four-round "curtain raiser."

Noye, according to Cornell, knocked Sammy Ward out in eight rounds last year. Friedman will be Leonard's next opponent in a lightweight title match.

Kramer to Box Teague.

Mike Kramer, who is shooting straight and hard, will be a feature of the South Broadway Athletic Club's next card. Mike's record does not show a single defeat, and he is developing one of the best boys developed here in some time, in accuracy and skill.

The Business Men's Athletic Association announces its complete card for its next show, Nov. 18, as follows:

Sammy Ward of Peoria, Ill., vs. George Butch, St. Louis; Kingdon Belmont of Carlinville, Ill., vs. Mann Derry of Plainville, Ill.; Jimmy Gorry, Vellerton, vs. Buddy McEale, St. Louis; Joe McIntyre vs. Roy Kleinkemper, St. Louis boys.

The first three matches are 10 rounds each and the last named will be four rounds.

How Root Worked.

Artie Root worked out yesterday at the Business Men's Athletic Association with his sparring mate, Kayo Krause, and Root's brother, Root boxed with the latter and does not move easily about the ring. Yesterday he was not concerned about his training, as he was down fine and did not want to sweat off any more weight in the hot gymnasium.

Root's face appears to have been unmarked during the eight years he has been a professional, except for a slight injury to his right ear, hardly noticeable. The obvious conclusion is that he is a shifty boxer and defensive fighter, although he gave no opportunity yesterday to judge as to this.

Kayo Krause is young and virile; furthermore he is a well-muscled bit of beef and Banker Kern will have to land his haymaker early, if he is to get the judge's eye first in their bout tonight.

The doctor would come,

A chrysanthemum show is a sort of a silent revue. They say it with flowers.

Some people's idea of a chrysanthemum show is where the slapstick artist comes on with a large "mum" on the lapel of his coat. The big punch to his act is where he pulls a salt shaker out of his pocket and, sprinkling the "mum" with salt, starts to eat it.

Zbyszko Retains Wrestling Title

Heavyweight Champion Wins From Earl Caddock, in Straight Falls.

By the Associated Press.
DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 8.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, successfully defended his title here last night, when he defeated Earl Caddock of Walnut, Ia., in straight falls.

After more than an hour of grappling, the Pole, by sheer strength, arose to his feet as Caddock was clinging to his shoulder and neck, and fell over backward, pinning the Iowa to the mat for the first fall in 15, 20m. and 20s.

Caddock was stunned from the effects of the first fall and offered little resistance to the Pole's attacks. After 24 minutes of grappling Caddock conceded the fall, being too weak to continue.

PIKER TENNIS TOURNAMENT ENDS THIS AFTERNOON
By the Associated Press.
The Washington University student tennis tournament will come to a close this afternoon when the final round of the singles and doubles will be played. Louis Monson and Jack Forester will oppose the team of Hunter and Kunes in the doubles final. This should be a close contest with Monson and Forester as slight favorites.

Sauselle has a lead of one set over Hunter, his opponent in the singles final, and is favored to win the championship. The tournament which opened the first week in October had a large entry in both the singles and doubles events. The winners will have a right to challenge for the regular varsity team.

Results—Men's Semifinal round—Hunter defeated Welnsche, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3; Sauselle defeated Forester, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3 6-1.

Penn Captain Plays With 2 Broken Ribs

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Rex Wray, captain of the University of Pennsylvania football team, has been playing for three weeks with two broken ribs, which he suffered in the game with Swarthmore on Oct. 15. Since then he has played hard games against Virginia Military Institute, Pittsburgh and Lafayette.

His injury did not become known until yesterday, when coaches noticed him wincing around the dressing room apparently in pain. He was taken to a physician, and an X-ray photograph revealed the fractured ribs.

UNIVERSITY CITY TEAM PLAYS WEBSTER FRIDAY
The University City High School football team will meet the Webster eleven at Webster Groves Friday in the feature game of the County High School schedule. Monahan Webster will meet in the other-county league game. On the basis of previous scores Clayton should win this contest. The game will take place on the Clayton Field.

Tomorrow.
CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—Marshal
Ferdinand Foch is the guest of the American Legion and the city of Cleveland for today and tomorrow.
Today is reserved for rest.

The reception upon his arrival ly informal. He was met by a committee of citizens and Troops A of the Ohio National Guard and escorted to the home of Parmely Herrick, son of Myron T. Herrick, Ambassador to France, to spend the day.

Buglers and drummers greeted him with flourishes and ruffles as he walked from the train to the automobile which carried him to the Herrick home in Gates Mill, east of the city.

Addresses of welcome and responses have been reserved for tomorrow, when for nearly 14 hours

MEN APPLY TODAY FOR CITY JOBS AT $2.50
Total of 302 File Applications in Day—20 Waiting When Office Opened.

Two hundred and two men today applied to the Efficiency Board, room 302 Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets, for employment at $2.50 a day, under provisions of the $80,000 appropriation made by the Board of Aldermen for relief of the unemployed. A list of more than 100 men, who have been found worthy by the St. Louis Provident Association, was submitted to the Efficiency Board, thus bringing the total of applicants to 302.

It has been estimated that only 260 men can be employed two to three months from the proceeds of the municipal appropriation. Applicants must have lived within the limits of St. Louis since Oct. 1 to be eligible for these jobs.
The first lot of men to be employed under this plan will be sent to the Municipal Docks tomorrow morning, where 21 will be placed. From time to time, beginning tomorrow, others will be called.
The $80,000 appropriation was passed by the Aldermen yesterday, and became effective today, on being signed by the Mayor. The total appropriation planned was $100,000, but $20,000 of this was for teams, and this is still to be voted, the rate of team hire not having been agreed upon by the Comptroller and the Board of Aldermen.
The work to be done will be cleaning of streets in the downtown district, destroying rats, and grading work in the reconstruction of part of King's highway, also some work on the Municipal Dock. The work will begin by Thursday, and those who have registered, or as many of them as can be used, will be called.

FREE A 10-Shave Tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream
At the Stores listed below

1,000 Men Were Asked

"What is your conception of the ideal shaving cream?"

For many years we have been making the ideal toilet soap. We blended palm and olive oils—the balmy cosmetics of age-old fame. And millions of people have adopted this Palmolive Soap.

Six years ago we started to embody this blend in a shaving cream. And the first step was to ask a thousand men the virtues they wanted in it.

These were their requirements:

First, a quick shave
Nine-tenths of these men wanted quick shaves, above all. They did not like long brushing, finger rubbing, hot towels and delay.

So a cream was made which acts in one minute. Within that time the average beard absorbs 15% of water. And that is enough. This result is due to almost instant oil removal—the oil that coats the beard.

Next, liberal lather
Next, they wanted liberal lather. And they wanted a little of the soap to go far.

So we developed a cream which multiplies itself 250 times in lather. A bit on the brush—only one-half gram—suffices for a shave. A single tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream serves for 152 shaves.

Lather that remains
Then they wanted a lather which maintains itself without drying on the face.

So we perfected a lather which maintains its creamy fullness for ten minutes.
That is ample time. This lather does not need replacement.

A soothing soap
They wanted a soothing shaving cream.
They wanted a lubricated razor, no irritation, a pleasant after-effect.

The best way ever known to those ends is the blend of palm and olive oils. The lather is a lotion in itself.

130 creams were made
We are experts in soap making. But it took us 18 months to attain this ideal shaving cream. 130 formulas were made up and tested. Thus step by step these supremacies were attained, and the best shaving cream in existence.

Now we ask you to test it. Learn in how many ways it excels. It will lead the way to a lifetime of delightful shaves.

HOSPITAL TREATS INFANTILE PARALYSIS WITH ELECTRICITY

Children Who Were Stricken in Epidemic of Five Years Ago Among Patients.

Special to the Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—While the infantile paralysis epidemic of five years ago is now just a memory to many persons, it is still a living subject to the children who were its victims and the institutions which are attempting to bring back these unfortunate to normal health and proper physique. One of the hospitals which claims to have done more work and accomplished greater results than many of the others in this respect is the Broad Street Hospital, the same institution which was taxed to its utmost after the bomb explosion in Wall street a year ago.
Electrotherapy is being used at the Broad Street Hospital to treat paralytic children, and according to the doctors, nurses, mothers of the children and the victims themselves, the results are most gratifying. Children who had been operated upon, and others who had had years of hand massage, had not shown any improvement in many cases until electrotherapeutics was applied.
If the case is taken in time the child responds to the treatment within a few weeks. If years pass, however, before electric treatment commences, little progress is seen for perhaps a month or two.

DAMNED WASTE, SAYS KING

George's Remark When Two Ministers Go to Him on Special Train.
Special Cable to the Dispatch.
LONDON, Nov. 2.—A good story has reached the Daily Sketch about King George and a recent meeting of Ministers. When the King was visiting Bolton Abbey he summoned a council to which two Cabinet Ministers hastened on a special train. Later the bill for the train came in—a little matter of £200 (normally $400). Thereupon King made this pointed observation:
"It was a damned waste of money. The expenditure was quite unnecessary."
But as he never interferes in constitutional matters, the British public will pay the bill and, adds the Daily Sketch, "indorse his majesty's sentiment."

Old Masters Saved From Fire.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 2.—Kinnaird Castle, near Brechin, Forfarshire, Scotland, the seat of the Earl of Southesk, was destroyed by fire last night. The Earl is the owner of a large collection of pictures by old masters, Italian, Dutch, Flemish, French and German; a library of thousands of volumes, including original manuscripts and Shakespearean folios, together with a large collection of antique gems. Many of the valuables were saved, but a Raeburn painting, valued at $50,000, was burned.

Why Can't You, Too, Be Well and Strong?

FEW of us realize how precious good health is until we begin to lose it. To be well is to enjoy life and make good times for those around us. To be constantly ailing is to miss life's pleasures and to look with envy upon our robust friends and neighbors.
Are you one of the unfortunate?
Is your health slowly slipping away?
It's time, then, you looked to your kidneys!

Much sickness of today is traceable to kidney weakness. Its increase is alarming. That's because it's unusually unseen or neglected.
But it's easy to tell if your kidneys are weak. You may have only backache; a lameness, stiffness, or sharp stabbing pains; dizzy spells, headaches, or annoying bladder irregularities.

If you have these systems, suspect your kidneys! Remember that delay may result in serious kidney sickness. But why dwell on the dark picture? Rather think of the brighter side! To remedy such a weakness is to add years to your life and to regain the health and strength that enables you to enter life's daily battle with joy and enthusiasm.

If you've reason to suspect your kidneys, read the stories of these St. Louis people. They tell how they have won back good health through Doan's Kidney Pills, the world's best-recommended kidney remedy. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These St. Louis Folks:

J. R. Cole, 1231 S. Broadway, says: "When I was a boy, my kidneys gave me trouble. My back ached just over my kidneys and for a time I could not play as other boys and after that time whenever I have lifted my kidneys have given me trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me when I was a boy and I have never forgotten them. For whenever I have a disordered condition of my kidneys or my back aches I take a few Doan's Kidney Pills and am soon sound and well again. I can vouch for the good qualities of Doan's and know they can be depended upon to do all that is claimed of them."

Mrs. John Fels, 2122A Prairie avenue, says: "My back felt weak and sore as if it would give out when I went up stairs. I had hardly strength enough to drag one foot after the other. My kidneys acted irregularly. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills in the paper as being good for such trouble as mine. This led me to believe they would help me. I got a supply and used them and they certainly cured me up in fine shape, making my kidneys strong again."

VEGETABLE salads should not be mixed and left standing until mealtime. The vegetables may be prepared before, but the dressing should not be added until salad is to be served.

You can add to the nutriment of vegetable soup by beating an egg in the soup tureen before pouring in the soup. Stir constantly while pouring soup over egg. Frying the vegetables a little before adding to the soup will improve the taste.

Butter and sugar will cream quickly if you heat the sugar. This can be done over hot water in the double boiler. Also warm the dish in which the cake is to be mixed. Do not melt the butter unless the recipe especially designates this. The hardest butter will readily soften by having the dish and sugar hot.

Try honey for sweetening stewed fruits. It gives a more delicious flavor than sugar. Some cooks use the golden syrup for the same purpose.

Vegetables should be put into boiling water and boil continuously until done. If the cooking process is suspended the vegetables will become soggy and heavy.

The total number of people in England and Wales is 37,885,242, of whom 19,803,022 are females. This is an excess of 1,720,802 females as compared with 3,279,276 in 1911.

Stories of the Great Teacher

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory

THIS story from Matthew should be printed in large, beautiful type, framed and hung up in the living room of every home in the land, and every day it should be reverently read over by father, mother and children for the light and guidance it would give them.

Let me tell the story in my own language, and tonight, before you go to bed, you can take five minutes in which to read it in the words of the Evangelist, thus fixing it securely in your memory.

The young man in question, having heard much about the "Eternal Life," went up to Jesus and put the question squarely up to Him: "Master, what good thing shall I do that I may have Eternal Life?" "Well," answered the Master, "if you would enter into life keep the commandments."

"This being a very important matter, Master, will you be kind enough to indicate to me WHICH commandments you have in mind, so that there may be no mistake about it?"

"Certainly. Thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not commit adultery, thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not bear false witness, honor thy father and thy mother, and thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

At this the young man straightens himself up to his full height and comes back with the apparently triumphant reply: "All these things have I observed from my youth up; what lack I yet? Go a little further, Master, and make the situation clear to me, for I am very anxious to obtain the great thing you call 'Eternal Life.'"

"Young man," said Jesus, "as I look into your eyes I love you. You are perfectly sincere. You are honestly seeking the truth. There is no hypocrisy in you, and I admire you greatly; but I am afraid I have some unpleasant news for you. You are very rich, you have great possessions in houses and lands, and cattle, and money in the bank; and all of this you will have to get rid of and follow me, if you would find the 'Eternal Life.'"

Hearing this, the man's countenance took on a look of deepest disappointment and sorrow, and he turned to go away as though his heart were broken when the Great Teacher, loving him more than ever, said to him in kindest tones: "Young man, you are but making the mistake that is made by the great majority of people in all ages. Your heart is set on your great possessions, the immense wealth that is piled up around and outside of yourself in the shape of broad acres of earth and big barns and herds of sheep and oxen; while the fact of facts is this: that the only real wealth is that which one has INSIDE in the shape of the invisible thing called character—right thoughts, right purposes, right relationship to one's fellow men. Not until you see and see clearly, that the main thing is BEING, rather than HAVING, what you are in and of YOURSELF, rather than in what you own in the form of material possessions, is it possible to enter into the life that is 'Eternal.'"

Dangerous Blondes and Vamping Brunettes

Professor Says Former Are Not Beautiful and the Controversy Goes on With Each Side Well Supported.

By RUTH SNYDER.

"BEAUTY in a blond race is next to impossible. It is more difficult for a blonde to measure up to beauty standards than it is for a brunette."

There seems to be a general campaign against blondes. This latest opprobrious remark against the much belittled blonde comes from the darling lips of Prof. Frederick Starr, an internationally noted anthropologist. Daring! Don't you think so? He dared to utter this bitter denunciation before the co-eds of the University of Chicago.

A symposium of views given to the press within the past few months would tend to place favors on the brunette side of the scales, weighing it down considerably. But nevertheless there is hope for the blondes—even in the scathing tirade against them hope may be found.

"I prefer the brunette type," declared Mme. Ballat Caille, a vivacious Frenchwoman who recently visited this country. "It has so much more expression, animation, intelligence—in the majority of cases, I mean. There is a sparkle in dark eyes, a flush in olive cheeks, a vitality and warmth about the dark beauty which rarely characterize the blonde. The brunette, too, is usually much more loyal than the blonde. The latter needs to be nothing else except blond in order to please. She is cold and selfish and conceited. She permits men to adore her, whereas the brunette knows how to love. She would make a man much more happy, yet he follows the lure of the blonde as a moth follows the candle flame."

What is it that makes the men follow the "lure of the blonde," as Mme. Ballat intimates? There must be some attraction there.

"Blonde women undoubtedly attract men quicker than brunettes, but it is not because of their hair," submits Dr. Orin W. Joslin. "It's because of the rest of the features that go with it. Blue eyes, for instance, are treacherous to men. And blue eyes and blond hair go together. We have found in our study of colors (Dr. Joslin specializes in the study of colors) that blue is sedative and tends to put a person to sleep."

Dr. Elizabeth Hamilton Muncie, a woman physician of Brooklyn, also admitted the fact that men preferred the blondes.

"Blondes excite the eyes. They're wearing on them," she declared. "Yet—I don't know what it is, but it is recognized fact in the medical profession that women with light, fluffy hair appeal to men more than the other kind."

So far everybody seems to favor the brunette. But hold on!

"I resent just tremendously the universal idea that a doll-like face, blue eyes and light hair betoken a lack of brains," raged Margaret Lawrence, demure, flaxen-haired actress. "They don't. Nothing of the kind. Men seem to expect nothing but pretty smiles and silly remarks from blondes. Some of them seem annoyed if a light-haired girl shows brains and common sense."

There you are, blondes! One point in your favor from a champion who has proved that blondes have brains. "All brunettes are vamps," that's all Mrs. Hannah H. Feldman said, but it is there in black and white to give an extra point to the blonde side. Mrs. Feldman made this remark in a motion for alimony against her husband, Charles E. Feldman.

But there are always crepe hangers. Here comes Municipal Court Justice Morris of the First District Municipal Court of the Bronx with the statement—"Blondes are fickle. There will be no blondes on this jury."

We will take his remark with a grain of salt, however, because it was lately discovered that his WIFE is a blonde and his children are blondes.

Supreme Court Justice Giegarich adds this:

"The source of all trouble in the home is a blonde. Historically, the blond affinity cuts a big figure as the women in the case and so to speak, are treacherous to men. And in the great majority of undefended cases that come before me I invariably learn that some blond lady has won a husband's affection."

To which Isabel Irving took exception.

"The trouble is that the moment a woman qualifies as a trouble maker she becomes a blonde. If she hasn't undergone that peroxide baptism already. Born blondes are the most circumspect of their kind. Sometimes blondness is merely the sibli of nature and conceals a glowing heart."

You are gaining, blondes, but wait until you hear what Albert Edward Wiggam says in a recent article entitled: "Shall I Marry a Blonde or Brunette?" He makes it clear, however, that his conception of a blonde is the pure blonde that is descended from the Nordic race living in Northern Europe.

"Blondes are three or four times as bad drunkards as brunettes."

"All angels are blondes."

Perhaps those two statements should not be coupled, but—

He states further that blondes revel in scrapping, but admits, "The blondes rule America."

"The blonds," invented democracy as they invented chivalry and gave her modern high position to women."

"Brunettes are much bigger liars than blondes."

Now make up your debit and credit and see where you stand. I hate to do it.

COOKED CELERY.

CUT celery in dice, boil until tender, drain and serve in a white sauce. Some cooks prefer to cook celery in lengths and serve it like asparagus, with a cream sauce. The outer stalks of the celery will do nicely for cooking, but to avoid a bitter flavor the water in which they are boiled should be changed several times. For a luncheon dish serve the celery on buttered toast and place a poached egg on top of each slice. Scalloped celery is delicious. Cook diced celery until tender, an hour or longer, drain and put into buttered baking dish. For two cups of celery use one-fourth cup melted butter, stir in one-fourth cup flour, pepper and salt to taste, one cup and a half of milk and a cup or less, as many be desired, of grated cheese. Pour this mixture over the celery. Cover with bread crumbs and brown in oven.

SWEET POTATO SOUFFLE.

Peel and cut potatoes into slices one-half inch thick, fry in very hot fat, but do not let them brown nor become stiff. When tender drain and let stand about 10 minutes. Reheat fat until it boils, then put in the potatoes. They will immediately puff out and become a delicate brown. Drain very dry and serve at once.

BANANAS A LA SULTANA

AN unusual way of serving bananas is called a la Sultana. For this dish split four bananas in two lengthwise and remove the pulp and press it through a sieve. Beat to a cream two tablespoons of butter, two egg yolks and one tablespoon of powdered sugar. When thick and smooth add the banana pulp and the stiffly beaten whites of the two eggs. Put the mixture back in the banana skins and place in the oven to brown. Serve hot as possible.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

A FAREWELL.

The English dairy maid has been driven out by modern machinery.

That merry maid, the dairy maid, who tripped so nimbly in the glade,
Whose silken hose made music shows
So fetching and so clever,
The nymph who sang "Ta-ta-too-tum" the duke, the noble duke has come!
And shrilly cheered when he appeared,
Is leaving us forever.

We find her not in England now, for when they milk the placid cow
Beside the brooks in woodland nooks
Mid boughs of waving greenery,
Or in the fair and grassy field when they deprive her of her yield
They don't employ a maiden coy,
But milk her by machinery.

Hereafter in the music plays no gentle maids with witching ways
Will leap and bound and dance around
The handsome leading actors;
The tenor who expands his throat in getting out his highest note
Will breathless grow before a row
Of patent milk extractors.

And motor-driven chains will whine while he clasps the heroine,
And gears will creak and plungers squeak
When he stoops down to kiss her,
The dairy maid must quit the stage—she isn't of this modern age—
She's doomed to pass, the winsome lass,
And golly! how we miss her!

A CINCIN. A tax on talk would raise a lot of money, but inasmuch as Congress would have to pay most of it, there wouldn't be any.

IT WOULD NEED A MIRACLE. We wonder if we will ever see a chorus man whose hat doesn't rest on both ears.

MASS MEETING
TONIGHT TO URGE DISARMAMENT

Civic Gathering at Coliseum in Interest of World Peace a Sequel to One Held April 5, 1917.

MUSICAL PROGRAM BY TWO BANDS ARRANGED

Petitions With Names of 40-000 "Peace Recruits" Will Be Assembled and Dispatched to President.

Tonight's mass meeting, in the Coliseum, in the interest of limitation of armament, is in one sense the sequel of the civic gathering held in the same place the night of April 5, 1917, a few hours before Congress declared a state of war with Germany.

The purpose of that meeting was to back up Congress in its declaration, which was then seen to be inevitable, and to enlist wholehearted support for the Government in the war, a prime object of which, in the general understanding, was to make future wars impossible.

The war having been ended without sure guarantees of future peace, tonight's meeting is part of a nationwide movement to obtain such guarantees, through agreement with other nations to limit and reduce armaments.

Recruiting Ends Today. A six-day period of recruiting, on downtown sidewalks, for the "Army of Peace," will end this evening, and the petitions, with the signatures of more than 40,000 St. Louisans, will be placed together at the Coliseum meeting, and will be forwarded to President Harding in Washington, possibly by a special messenger. The petitions are headed, "Petition to the President for Limitation of Armaments," and they read:

Because the great World War resulted in the sacrifice of ten millions of men, and millions of women and children; and because another war would mean extermination of nations; we, as citizens of the United States, do urge the International Conference on Limitation of Armaments to speedily formulate a plan for the immediate reduction of the armaments of the world. Furthermore, we request the International Conference on the Limitation of Armaments to consider its problems openly, avoiding secret sessions.

City Club Moves That City Go On Record Against Armament. Members of the City Club, at luncheon yesterday, unanimously adopted a resolution that the city of St. Louis go on record as favoring limitation of armament, among the nations of the world. The resolution will be communicated to the United States delegation at the conference in Washington.
